Kiwanis, Rotary Urged to Help in Release of Oatis

Frederic Snyder Asks Service Clubs to Aid Cause of Imprisoned AP Reporter

Addressing a joint luncheon of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Frederic Snyder, local lecturer, appealed to his listeners to join in a move to bring about the ultimate release of William N. Oatis, Associated Press reporter, who is now a prisoner of Communist Czechoslovakia.

Snyder, referring several times to the Oatis case, urged the use of the driver "Keep Notice of Oatis" and expressed the hope that the AP would be made to mean "American Pressure."

Oatis, chief of The Associated Press Bureau in Prague, was sentenced to a 10-year prison term this week for "spying out state secrets" while doing his job as an Associated Press reporter.

Oatis' trial was assailed in New York by The Associated Press as a "sham and mockery of elemental justice."

Sees Dismalities

We are now confronted by a long list of dismalities, he said. "Perfidy and treachery cause us to wonder what has happened to the virtue of integrity. Right now the urgent is outreaching the important. We seem to be under a fixed canopy of emergency. We cannot have a happy existence in a world of science—without the persuasive power of conscience. We now see the collapse of consciences."

Speaking on the topic, "The Wisdom of An Infusion—to Offset the Worry Induced by Confusion," Snyder reminded his listeners that Robert Voegler, another reported "spy" according to the Reds, was released from prison after a concerted drive by certain elements in this country.

He went on to say "if we are to have the joys of freedom and the guarantee of liberty we must resolve to serve the cause of liberty everywhere."

Started With Mindszenty

Snyder scored the failure of the religious forces of the world to act in unity in the recent imprisonment of Cardinal Mindszenty. "This," he added, "set the go ahead signals for the legalistic barbarisms visited upon Voegler and now Oatis."

He pointed out that when the late Floyd Collins was caught in a cave in Kentucky the entire nation came to his rescue. National Guardsmen and countless others did heroic things to bring him to safety. His plight was dramatized daily "and now," the speaker added, "it is just as vital to lift this worthy agent of The Associated Press from the snake pits of treachery and cruelty."

Avoiding any partisan or political discussion, the speaker quoted a distinguished political scientist as saying that the presidency is

Decision Reversed In Electric Firm's Case Against City

Court Order Directed Suit for Million Dollars in Claims for Reservoir

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Third Department, has handed down a decision reversing an order made by Supreme Court Justice Zeller, at Madison county special term, in a mandamus proceeding brought by Delaware County Electric Cooperative, Inc., against the City of New York, its corporation counsel and Board of Water Supply and Frederick W. Loomis and others as Commissioners of Appraisal. The order appealed from directed the City of New York and the other respondents to proceed in such a way that a claim of upwards of $1,000,000 filed by the Cooperative against the City of New York would be passed upon by Commissioners of Appraisal.

The Cooperative operates electric power distribution lines and furnishes electric light and power to its customers in Delaware and Schoharie counties. Its claim against the city of New York was based upon the condemnation of lands by the city for Pepacton reservoir which will require the discontinuance of the Cooperative's lines in the reservoir area.

Firm Formed in 1941

Delaware County Electric Cooperative, Inc., is a New York corporation formed under the Rural Electric Co-operative Law and was incorporated on July 18, 1941, for the purpose of bringing electric service to rural areas in Delaware, Schoharie and surrounding counties not receiving central station electric service. The system consists of about 400 miles of electric transmission and distribution lines and serves approximately 1,100 customers.

The so-called "Delaware Plan" adopted in 1928 by the City of New York contemplated the construction of a dam in the valley of the East Branch of the Delaware river near Downsville and the creation of the Pepacton reservoir covering substantially the entire river valley between Downsville and Margaretville, a distance of approximately 20 miles. Preliminary work was begun in March of 1940.

Based on Lease

The city's defense to the mandamus proceeding was that under a lease of the former Delaware and Northern Railroad lands owned by the city under which the city permitted the Cooperative to build its power distribution lines over such lands, the Cooperative had released the city from any and all claims in respect to its lines on lands acquired by the City of New York in the Pepacton reservoir area. Although the Cooperative contended that the release provisions of the lease applied only in respect to its lines which were built over the city's property, the Appellate Division construed the provisions in accordance with the

Jerome H. Countryman Dies of Fractures and Shock on Project at Lackawack

Jerome H. Countryman, 51, of Napanoch was accidentally killed about 4 p. m. Thursday in a bulldozer mishap at the New York City Board of Water Supply project at Lackawack, where he was employed, Coroner Ernest A. Kelly reported.

After emergency treatment at the scene by Dr. Karl H. Messinger of Grahamsville, Countryman was brought to the Benedictine Hospital in Kingston, where he died on arrival, Coroner Kelly reported.

The coroner's investigation disclosed that Countryman, an employe of the Tuckahoe Construction Company, was riding on the back of a bulldozer shortly after the 4 p. m. quitting time. The 'dozer stopped to pick up another worker when a second bulldozer crashed into the rear, the coroner reported.

Death From Shock

An autopsy by Drs. Saul Ritchie, Herbert Derman and Messinger determined that shock was principal cause of death. Other injuries included multiple fractures of the pelvis and a pelvic hemorrhage.

Funeral services in charge of Pulling Funeral Home, Ellenville, will be held Sunday. Burial will be in Grahamsville Cemetery.

To Discontinue Shorts

New York, July 6 (AP)—After 16 years, the "March of Time" movie shorts will be discontinued and its facilities used for television. Roy E. Larsen, president of Time, Inc., said yesterday that rising costs make the change necessary this fall. Larsen said the company will continue to make some documentary films.

Frederick Vanderbilt Field (right), millionaire leftist, leaves Federal Court in New York city after being sentenced to 90 days for refusing to tell who provided $80,000 bond for four bail-jumping Communist leaders. With Field is Abner Green, a trustee of the Civil Rights Congress which posted $260,000 bond for 11 convicted American Communist leaders.

UN Planes Will Avoid Highway Traveled by Emissaries to Peace Parley

To Meet Sunday

Attacks Are Barred on Kaesong While Talks Are Held

Tokyo, Saturday, July 7 (AP)—Communist commanders today gave final approval to arrangements for preliminary cease-fire talks—five hours before their emissaries were scheduled to leave for Kaesong.

In a midnight message, the top Red generals acknowledged the United Nations guarantee of safe conduct for their emissaries.

The allies already were putting the pledge into effect when the Red Pyongyang radio broadcast the eighth message in the series of radio negotiations.

U.N. war planes were ordered to keep away from the highway down which Communist negotiators will travel today for cease-fire preliminary talks in Kaesong.

Lt. Gen. O. P. Weyland, Far East Air Forces commander, issued the order a few hours after opposing commanders completed arrangements by radio for a Sunday meeting—and guaranteed safe conduct to the emissaries.

The Communist delegation leaves Pyohgyang, the Red Korean capital, at 5 a. m. Saturday (2 p. m. EST today).

The Communist convoy will fly white flags as it travels down the bomb-pocked Pyongyang-Sariwon-Namchongjom highway to Kaesong, three miles south of Parallel 38.

Attacks Barred

General Weyland ordered his war planes to make no attacks along the route after 4 a. m. Saturday (1 p. m. EST Friday).

The order carried out the pledge of safe conduct made earlier in the day by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.N. commander. And it banned allied bombers from one of their favorite targets. The highway is a main Red supply artery to the western front.

It has been under almost constant attack for months. Bombs have cratered it badly. And it is liberally seeded with tetrahedrons—sharp, four-pointed cast iron devices for puncturing tires.

Bombers and fighters also were ordered to make no attacks within a five mile radius of Kaesong once the Red delegation reaches it. This carried out another pledge Ridgway made when he completed final arrangements for a meeting of three U.N. officers with three Red emissaries in the no-man's-land city.

The two delegations meet Sunday to arrange for a cease-fire session scheduled to start in Kaesong Tuesday.

The shooting will continue until an agreement is reached at the second meeting, and approved.

Clear Road

Air scouts spotted half a dozen people in Kaesong today but couldn't tell whether they were Reds, allies or civilians. A U.N. patrol headed for the city for the third successive day while engineers swept mines from the "peace road" the U.N. delegation will travel if it goes by jeep.

Travel by Jeeps

The Communist delegation will leave the Pyongyang area at 5 a. m. Saturday (2 p. m. E.S.T. Friday). It will travel in five jeeps and five trucks, each bearing a white flag.

The Red route is down the main highway linking the Red Korean capital with Seoul, old South Korean capital and starting point of the UN delegation.

Kaesong, ancient capital of Korea, is 85 miles southeast of Pyongyang and 35 miles northwest of Seoul.

Allied emissaries will make the

Controls Fight Is Firmly Staked in Political Arena

Suit Against Chief Is Discontinued

Action Was to Recover Adding Machines Taken in Raid

Attorney John Larkin, representing the district attorney's office, and City Judge Raymond J. Mino said today that notice had been served to the effect that the case brought against Police Chief Raymond Van Buren for the recovery of three adding machines taken in a police raid, has been discontinued.

The case opened in city court on June 28 when Attorney Elmor Nathan for the plaintiff, Joseph Weiss, of Elmendorf street, asked to amend paragraphs in his case dealing with the serial numbers of the machines and to insert the word "wrongfully" in paragraphs dealing with seizure of the machines.

Weiss, the plaintiff, had no connection with the police raid at 48 Chambers street last April 14 when five men were arrested on charges relating to bookmaking and policy. His attorney said he is a relative of one of the defendants.

Attorney Nathan was not available today for a statement as to why he was withdrawing the civil action.

Bruhn Represents Chief

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn appeared last week in behalf of the police chief when the case opened and Judge Mino allowed him an adjournment until

Democrats Are Ordered to Back President; GOP Ready for Long Fight

Washington, July 6 (AP)—Intervention by the Democratic National Committee in the congressional fight over price controls has staked the issue firmly in the political arena.

And House Republicans indicated today they are willing to slug it out on that basis right up to the 1952 presidential election.

William M. Boyle, Jr., chairman of the Democratic National Committee, entered the fight yesterday with a call to all committee members and state chairmen and vice chairmen to rally behind President Truman's campaign for a tighter rein on the nation's economy.

Boyle's telegram to the party leaders urged them to "seek action by mayors, other elected officials and civic leaders to support strong price control legislation without amendments or weakening exemptions." It added:

Stresses Weight

"Your views and those of other community leaders will have great weight with our congressional delegation. Action is needed now as voting starts Monday in the House of Representatives."

The House today continued debate on a bill to extend for one year the defense production act which provides wage, price, rent and other controls. The act, recently extended for one month, is due to expire July 31.

President Truman wants it strengthened. The Senate already has passed an eight-months extension which rejects the changes Mr. Truman proposed and waters down the powers he now has. The House appears to be in a similar mood.

Politics, He Says

Republican reaction to Boyle's move was keynoted by Rep. Arends of Illinois, acting minority leader in the House.

"Plain politics," he told a reporter today. "That shows the politics that the administration has put into this issue but I did not think they would be so brazen about it. We are willing to fight it out on that basis if they want it that way."

Arends predicted heavy Republican support for pending amendments to ban rollbacks. He agreed with Rep. Wolcott of Michigan, senior G.O.P. member of the House Banking Committee, who said that indirect controls would be adequate if properly administered.

Wolcott told the House yesterday the administration could cope with the threat of inflation if it moved to hike federal reserve system interest rates and increase bank reserve requirements to curb private credit.

Sees Higher Living Costs

Meanwhile, Eric Johnston, economic stabilization director, told a news conference yesterday that the controls measure pending in Congress is likely to mean an increase of a dollar a day in living costs for every American family.

Murphy Sworn In

New York, July 6 (AP)—Thomas F. Murphy, police commissioner for the past nine months, was sworn in today as a U. S. District Court judge. About 400 friends and officials attended the simple 10-minute ceremony and saw the flowing black robes of a judge draped around the six foot, four inch Murphy.

Board Will Study Fluoridation Plan

The Board of Water Commissioners moved last night to investigate the proposal to fluoridate the city's water supply.

All members of the board were designated as a committee to study and report on the proposal which was favored by Common Council action Tuesday, and a report will be made soon Thomas M. Davitt, president of the board, said today.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk recommended Common Council action on the proposal after proposals and discussion by state and county health officials. The council approved fluoridation subject to approval by the water board.

Tunnel Workers Quit at Aqueduct

Shavertown, N. Y., July 6 (AP)—Construction on the $44,300,000 Delaware aqueduct project that will tunnel fresh water to New York city was halted for the second day today by a strike for higher wages.

Eight hundred workmen were idle.

John S. McDonald, of Roscoe, project manager, said 550 were on strike, and that another 250 on related jobs were idled for lack of work caused by the strike.

He said the walkout violated a union contract agreement that any dispute should be arbitrated.

The members of Locals 7, 17 and 643 of the International Hod Carriers Union (AFL) stopped work yesterday.

Hank Mayer, business agent of Local 17, said the union had not authorized the stoppage, which he described as their protest against "inflationary living costs." He said the men sought an increase of 25 to 30 cents an hour.

The giant tunnels will carry water from this Catskill mountain area to New York city. The 550 men, on three shifts, are drilling at four places, located in Delaware and Sullivan counties.

Mayer said a conference had been scheduled for Monday between union officials and the contractors, the Walsh and Perrini Construction Company, New York city.

The talks will be held at company offices in Roscoe, Mayer said.

He said tunnel workers' present wages averaged $2.15 an hour, with an average of $70 for a 40-hour week.

Bridges and Ferry Show Increase

Travel over the three Hudson river bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority in June was generally above that of June, 1950, the authority said, today, but a low flow of traffic for the mid-week holiday yesterday may cut down this month's total.

The report given for the bridges were:

Rip Van Winkle, 1951, 138,756, and June 1950, 120,876, an increase of 17,880 vehicles or 14.79 per cent.

Mid-Hudson, 281,655 and 263,614, a gain of 18,041 vehicles or 6.84 per cent.

Bear Mountain, 144,689 and 133,111, a gain of 11,578 or 8.70 per cent.

Kingston-Rhinebeck ferry, 9,392 and 8,866, a gain of 526 vehicles. Pedestrian travel here was 111 under last year with totals of 2,740 and 2,851.

3 Are in Hospital After Cars Crash

Port Ewen Woman and Wallkill Resident Among Injured

Three persons were hospitalized and four others received medical treatment after two automobiles collided Thursday afternoon at Sherwood's Corners, Wallkill.

Authorities at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh today reported as "fairly good" the condition of Celestina Chiccaetti, 24, of Brooklyn. The state police accident report indicated that she suffered a fractured pelvis and other possible injuries.

Also hospitalized at St. Luke's were Michelina Veglianzo, 31, of Wallkill, and Genevieve Tinney, 34, of Port Ewen, both of whom were reported in "good" condition.

Sgt. William B. Martin of the Highland troopers' barracks reported that Miss Chiccaetti was a passenger in an automobile driven by Miss Veglianzo. In the same vehicle were Nicoletta Chiccaetti, and Antoinette Chiccaetti, both of Brooklyn, who were treated by a local physician, state police reported.

Car Overturns

The car in which they were riding overturned after being struck on the side by an automobile owned by the Ulster County Girl Scout Council and driven by Miss Ethel Halsey, 23, of Oxford, a counselor at Camp Wendy, troopers said. In the Girl Scout vehicle were riding Mrs. Tinney, camp nurse, and Miss Helen Cline, 20, of Kingston, a camp staff member, the state police report stated.

A local physician treated Miss Halsey for shock and Miss Cline for lacerations and contusions, troopers said. No arrests were made. The accident occurred about 5:25 p. m. at the intersection of Route 300 and a county road from New Hurley.

Trooper Finds Man Wanted in Rome

A man who was accused of taking an automobile without permission and abandoning it after an accident near Oneida on July 2 was apprehended Thursday afternoon by state police at Lake Katrine.

James C. Stedman, 22, who gave his address as Liberty street, Rome, was detained by Trooper Edward Devine of the Lake Katrine station and was lodged in the Ulster county jail to be turned over today to state police from Oneida.

Stedman had been sought since July 2 on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, troopers said. He was also wanted by Rome police to answer a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Trooper Devine spotted Stedman walking along the highway at Lake Katrine and detained him after questioning.

The report received by Lake Katrine troopers from Oneida listed no personal injuries in connection with the July 2 accident.

Dewey Cautions Against World Peace Plan by Surrender or Appeasement

Tokyo, July 6 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey said today the United States is dedicated to making world peace inevitable but cautioned the free nations against "peace by surrender or appeasement."

The New York Republican governor made no direct reference to the Korean cease-fire talks scheduled to begin Sunday.

He spoke before the America-Japan Society, composed of prominent Americans in Japan and Japanese business and government leaders. The speech was broadcast in the U. S.

The United States, he said, is not afraid of internal and external Communist aggression and has not "the slightest doubt of the final outcome."

Likewise, Dewey added, the U. S. is unafraid of the "continuing threat of warlike Communist aggression" because of America's tremendous industrial might.

The twice-defeated Republican presidential nominee declared "neutralism is an illusion from which only the harsh reality of defeat and slavery can result."

He said the free nations "with unity and development of overwhelming strength" can "look forward to the gradual exhaustion and disintegration of the Communist forces of slavery and aggression."

Must Be Strong Peace

The United States, he said, is building its strength to prevent war and will never attempt to "use other nations for purpose of aggression."

"We do not believe war is inevitable," he declared.

"We are dedicated to the high purpose of making peace inevitable.

"It must be a peace of strength—not a mere peace of surrender or appeasement."

Dewey said that when a Japanese peace treaty is completed he was "convinced that the conduct of the Japanese people will fully justify the sacrifices my country made" toward restoring Japanese economy.

The Republican leader said he appeared before the group as a private citizen and did not speak for the U. S. Government.

"On the contrary, I am an active member of the party of the opposition," he added.

Dewey conferred with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, United Nations supreme commander, and U. S. Ambassador William J. Sebald Thursday before completing the final draft of his speech. It was his first speech on a six-weeks, 29,000-mile tour of nine countries of the Far East.

Talks With Leaders

Dewey declared that in the U. S. there is a tradition "that political partisanship stops at the water's edge. We do not carry our private disagreements overseas. We argue them out at home."

He made direct reference to the U. S. Senate hearing into the dismissal of General MacArthur as supreme allied commander in Japan. He said both Republicans and Democrats supported a statement from the hearing that declared the objectives of the U. S. were unchanged by the controversy.

Dewey, just prior to his speech, visited the Japanese Diet. There he visited with 20 leaders representing the major Japanese political parties. Much of the informal talk revolved around the Japanese Peace Treaty.

Truck Weighing Station Planned Near Highland

One of the first 42 truck weighing stations to be built in the state will be erected in the vicinity of Highland, Bertram D. Tallamy, state superintendent of public works, said today.

Bids will be opened at Albany at 2 p. m., July 18 on the weighing station projects for the State Tax Commission as instruments of enforcement of the state's new truck mileage tax.

It is estimated that 120 or more stations may be required. The public works department will build and operate them for the tax commission. The new law becomes effective Oct. 1.

Each station will consist of a weighing platform, a concrete pit to house the scales, a small frame building, 11 by 13 feet with complete sanitary, electrical and heating facilities. The furnishing of the scales is not included in the construction projects.

Separate bids are requested on each station. Prospective bidders are advised that signs will be posted within the next few days at the exact location of the 42 stations on which bids will be received. Construction plans are available from the Poughkeepsie office of the State Department of Public Works or from its Albany office.

Port Ewen Woman and Wallkill Resident Among Injured

Three persons were hospitalized and four others received medical treatment after two automobiles collided Thursday afternoon at Sherwood's Corners, Wallkill.

Authorities at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh today reported as "fairly good" the condition of Celestina Chiccaetti, 24, of Brooklyn. The state police accident report indicated that she suffered a fractured pelvis and other possible injuries.

Also hospitalized at St. Luke's were Michelina Veglianzo, 31, of Wallkill, and Genevieve Tinney, 34, of Port Ewen, both of whom were reported in "good" condition.

Sgt. William B. Martin of the Highland troopers' barracks reported that Miss Chiccaetti was a passenger in an automobile driven by Miss Veglianzo. In the same vehicle were Nicoletta Chiccaetti, and Antoinette Chiccaetti, both of Brooklyn, who were treated by a local physician, state police reported.

Car Overturns

The car in which they were riding overturned after being struck on the side by an automobile owned by the Ulster County Girl Scout Council and driven by Miss Ethel Halsey, 23, of Oxford, a counselor at Camp Wendy, troopers said. In the Girl Scout vehicle were riding Mrs. Tinney, camp nurse, and Miss Helen Cline, 20, of Kingston, a camp staff member, the state police report stated.

A local physician treated Miss Halsey for shock and Miss Cline for lacerations and contusions, troopers said. No arrests were made. The accident occurred about 5:25 p. m. at the intersection of Route 300 and a county road from New Hurley.

Trooper Finds Man Wanted in Rome

A man who was accused of taking an automobile without permission and abandoning it after an accident near Oneida on July 2 was apprehended Thursday afternoon by state police at Lake Katrine.

James C. Stedman, 22, who gave his address as Liberty street, Rome, was detained by Trooper Edward Devine of the Lake Katrine station and was lodged in the Ulster county jail to be turned over today to state police from Oneida.

Stedman had been sought since July 2 on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, troopers said. He was also wanted by Rome police to answer a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Trooper Devine spotted Stedman walking along the highway at Lake Katrine and detained him after questioning.

The report received by Lake Katrine troopers from Oneida listed no personal injuries in connection with the July 2 accident.

UN Planes Will Avoid Highway Traveled by Emissaries to Peace Parley

To Meet Sunday

Attacks Are Barred on Kaesong While Talks Are Held

Tokyo, Saturday, July 7 (AP)—Communist commanders today gave final approval to arrangements for preliminary cease-fire talks—five hours before their emissaries were scheduled to leave for Kaesong.

In a midnight message, the top Red generals acknowledged the United Nations guarantee of safe conduct for their emissaries.

The allies already were putting the pledge into effect when the Red Pyongyang radio broadcast the eighth message in the series of radio negotiations.

U.N. war planes were ordered to keep away from the highway down which Communist negotiators will travel today for cease-fire preliminary talks in Kaesong.

Lt. Gen. O. P. Weyland, Far East Air Forces commander, issued the order a few hours after opposing commanders completed arrangements by radio for a Sunday meeting—and guaranteed safe conduct to the emissaries.

The Communist delegation leaves Pyohgyang, the Red Korean capital, at 5 a. m. Saturday (2 p. m. EST today).

The Communist convoy will fly white flags as it travels down the bomb-pocked Pyongyang-Sariwon-Namchongjom highway to Kaesong, three miles south of Parallel 38.

Attacks Barred

General Weyland ordered his war planes to make no attacks along the route after 4 a. m. Saturday (1 p. m. EST Friday).

The order carried out the pledge of safe conduct made earlier in the day by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.N. commander. And it banned allied bombers from one of their favorite targets. The highway is a main Red supply artery to the western front.

It has been under almost constant attack for months. Bombs have cratered it badly. And it is liberally seeded with tetrahedrons—sharp, four-pointed cast iron devices for puncturing tires.

Bombers and fighters also were ordered to make no attacks within a five mile radius of Kaesong once the Red delegation reaches it. This carried out another pledge Ridgway made when he completed final arrangements for a meeting of three U.N. officers with three Red emissaries in the no-man's-land city.

The two delegations meet Sunday to arrange for a cease-fire session scheduled to start in Kaesong Tuesday.

The shooting will continue until an agreement is reached at the second meeting, and approved.

Clear Road

Air scouts spotted half a dozen people in Kaesong today but couldn't tell whether they were Reds, allies or civilians. A U.N. patrol headed for the city for the third successive day while engineers swept mines from the "peace road" the U.N. delegation will travel if it goes by jeep.

Travel by Jeeps

The Communist delegation will leave the Pyongyang area at 5 a. m. Saturday (2 p. m. E.S.T. Friday). It will travel in five jeeps and five trucks, each bearing a white flag.

The Red route is down the main highway linking the Red Korean capital with Seoul, old South Korean capital and starting point of the UN delegation.

Kaesong, ancient capital of Korea, is 85 miles southeast of Pyongyang and 35 miles northwest of Seoul.

Allied emissaries will make the

Controls Fight Is Firmly Staked in Political Arena

Suit Against Chief Is Discontinued

Action Was to Recover Adding Machines Taken in Raid

Attorney John Larkin, representing the district attorney's office, and City Judge Raymond J. Mino said today that notice had been served to the effect that the case brought against Police Chief Raymond Van Buren for the recovery of three adding machines taken in a police raid, has been discontinued.

The case opened in city court on June 28 when Attorney Elmor Nathan for the plaintiff, Joseph Weiss, of Elmendorf street, asked to amend paragraphs in his case dealing with the serial numbers of the machines and to insert the word "wrongfully" in paragraphs dealing with seizure of the machines.

Weiss, the plaintiff, had no connection with the police raid at 48 Chambers street last April 14 when five men were arrested on charges relating to bookmaking and policy. His attorney said he is a relative of one of the defendants.

Attorney Nathan was not available today for a statement as to why he was withdrawing the civil action.

Bruhn Represents Chief

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn appeared last week in behalf of the police chief when the case opened and Judge Mino allowed him an adjournment until

Democrats Are Ordered to Back President; GOP Ready for Long Fight

Washington, July 6 (AP)—Intervention by the Democratic National Committee in the congressional fight over price controls has staked the issue firmly in the political arena.

And House Republicans indicated today they are willing to slug it out on that basis right up to the 1952 presidential election.

William M. Boyle, Jr., chairman of the Democratic National Committee, entered the fight yesterday with a call to all committee members and state chairmen and vice chairmen to rally behind President Truman's campaign for a tighter rein on the nation's economy.

Boyle's telegram to the party leaders urged them to "seek action by mayors, other elected officials and civic leaders to support strong price control legislation without amendments or weakening exemptions." It added:

Stresses Weight

"Your views and those of other community leaders will have great weight with our congressional delegation. Action is needed now as voting starts Monday in the House of Representatives."

The House today continued debate on a bill to extend for one year the defense production act which provides wage, price, rent and other controls. The act, recently extended for one month, is due to expire July 31.

President Truman wants it strengthened. The Senate already has passed an eight-months extension which rejects the changes Mr. Truman proposed and waters down the powers he now has. The House appears to be in a similar mood.

Politics, He Says

Republican reaction to Boyle's move was keynoted by Rep. Arends of Illinois, acting minority leader in the House.

"Plain politics," he told a reporter today. "That shows the politics that the administration has put into this issue but I did not think they would be so brazen about it. We are willing to fight it out on that basis if they want it that way."

Arends predicted heavy Republican support for pending amendments to ban rollbacks. He agreed with Rep. Wolcott of Michigan, senior G.O.P. member of the House Banking Committee, who said that indirect controls would be adequate if properly administered.

Wolcott told the House yesterday the administration could cope with the threat of inflation if it moved to hike federal reserve system interest rates and increase bank reserve requirements to curb private credit.

Sees Higher Living Costs

Meanwhile, Eric Johnston, economic stabilization director, told a news conference yesterday that the controls measure pending in Congress is likely to mean an increase of a dollar a day in living costs for every American family.

Murphy Sworn In

New York, July 6 (AP)—Thomas F. Murphy, police commissioner for the past nine months, was sworn in today as a U. S. District Court judge. About 400 friends and officials attended the simple 10-minute ceremony and saw the flowing black robes of a judge draped around the six foot, four inch Murphy.

Tunnel Workers Quit at Aqueduct

Shavertown, N. Y., July 6 (AP)—Construction on the $44,300,000 Delaware aqueduct project that will tunnel fresh water to New York city was halted for the second day today by a strike for higher wages.

Eight hundred workmen were idle.

John S. McDonald, of Roscoe, project manager, said 550 were on strike, and that another 250 on related jobs were idled for lack of work caused by the strike.

He said the walkout violated a union contract agreement that any dispute should be arbitrated.

The members of Locals 7, 17 and 643 of the International Hod Carriers Union (AFL) stopped work yesterday.

Hank Mayer, business agent of Local 17, said the union had not authorized the stoppage, which he described as their protest against "inflationary living costs." He said the men sought an increase of 25 to 30 cents an hour.

The giant tunnels will carry water from this Catskill mountain area to New York city. The 550 men, on three shifts, are drilling at four places, located in Delaware and Sullivan counties.

Mayer said a conference had been scheduled for Monday between union officials and the contractors, the Walsh and Perrini Construction Company, New York city.

The talks will be held at company offices in Roscoe, Mayer said.

He said tunnel workers' present wages averaged $2.15 an hour, with an average of $70 for a 40-hour week.

Board Will Study Fluoridation Plan

The Board of Water Commissioners moved last night to investigate the proposal to fluoridate the city's water supply.

All members of the board were designated as a committee to study and report on the proposal which was favored by Common Council action Tuesday, and a report will be made soon Thomas M. Davitt, president of the board, said today.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk recommended Common Council action on the proposal after proposals and discussion by state and county health officials. The council approved fluoridation subject to approval by the water board.

Bridges and Ferry Show Increase

Travel over the three Hudson river bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority in June was generally above that of June, 1950, the authority said, today, but a low flow of traffic for the mid-week holiday yesterday may cut down this month's total.

The report given for the bridges were:

Rip Van Winkle, 1951, 138,756, and June 1950, 120,876, an increase of 17,880 vehicles or 14.79 per cent.

Mid-Hudson, 281,655 and 263,614, a gain of 18,041 vehicles or 6.84 per cent.

Bear Mountain, 144,689 and 133,111, a gain of 11,578 or 8.70 per cent.

Kingston-Rhinebeck ferry, 9,392 and 8,866, a gain of 526 vehicles. Pedestrian travel here was 111 under last year with totals of 2,740 and 2,851.

Dewey Cautions Against World Peace Plan by Surrender or Appeasement

Tokyo, July 6 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey said today the United States is dedicated to making world peace inevitable but cautioned the free nations against "peace by surrender or appeasement."

The New York Republican governor made no direct reference to the Korean cease-fire talks scheduled to begin Sunday.

He spoke before the America-Japan Society, composed of prominent Americans in Japan and Japanese business and government leaders. The speech was broadcast in the U. S.

The United States, he said, is not afraid of internal and external Communist aggression and has not "the slightest doubt of the final outcome."

Likewise, Dewey added, the U. S. is unafraid of the "continuing threat of warlike Communist aggression" because of America's tremendous industrial might.

The twice-defeated Republican presidential nominee declared "neutralism is an illusion from which only the harsh reality of defeat and slavery can result."

He said the free nations "with unity and development of overwhelming strength" can "look forward to the gradual exhaustion and disintegration of the Communist forces of slavery and aggression."

Must Be Strong Peace

The United States, he said, is building its strength to prevent war and will never attempt to "use other nations for purpose of aggression."

"We do not believe war is inevitable," he declared.

"We are dedicated to the high purpose of making peace inevitable.

"It must be a peace of strength—not a mere peace of surrender or appeasement."

Dewey said that when a Japanese peace treaty is completed he was "convinced that the conduct of the Japanese people will fully justify the sacrifices my country made" toward restoring Japanese economy.

The Republican leader said he appeared before the group as a private citizen and did not speak for the U. S. Government.

"On the contrary, I am an active member of the party of the opposition," he added.

Dewey conferred with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, United Nations supreme commander, and U. S. Ambassador William J. Sebald Thursday before completing the final draft of his speech. It was his first speech on a six-weeks, 29,000-mile tour of nine countries of the Far East.

Talks With Leaders

Dewey declared that in the U. S. there is a tradition "that political partisanship stops at the water's edge. We do not carry our private disagreements overseas. We argue them out at home."

He made direct reference to the U. S. Senate hearing into the dismissal of General MacArthur as supreme allied commander in Japan. He said both Republicans and Democrats supported a statement from the hearing that declared the objectives of the U. S. were unchanged by the controversy.

Dewey, just prior to his speech, visited the Japanese Diet. There he visited with 20 leaders representing the major Japanese political parties. Much of the informal talk revolved around the Japanese Peace Treaty.

Truck Weighing Station Planned Near Highland

One of the first 42 truck weighing stations to be built in the state will be erected in the vicinity of Highland, Bertram D. Tallamy, state superintendent of public works, said today.

Bids will be opened at Albany at 2 p. m., July 18 on the weighing station projects for the State Tax Commission as instruments of enforcement of the state's new truck mileage tax.

It is estimated that 120 or more stations may be required. The public works department will build and operate them for the tax commission. The new law becomes effective Oct. 1.

Each station will consist of a weighing platform, a concrete pit to house the scales, a small frame building, 11 by 13 feet with complete sanitary, electrical and heating facilities. The furnishing of the scales is not included in the construction projects.

Separate bids are requested on each station. Prospective bidders are advised that signs will be posted within the next few days at the exact location of the 42 stations on which bids will be received. Construction plans are available from the Poughkeepsie office of the State Department of Public Works or from its Albany office.

Among "countless acts of individual heroism" cited were six flights Almond made in an unarmed plane to go over the front.

Five May Be Dead In Sunken Boat

New Orleans, July 6 (AP)—Engineers planned today to raise a sunken towboat, believed to be the tomb of five crewmen who perished when it collided with a 10,000-ton tanker in the Mississippi river near here yesterday.

The four other members of the crew are in a hospital here recovering from injuries, shock and exposure. They escaped as the towboat capsized after the collision.

Listed as missing are the skipper, Robert W. Wilkerson, 50, of Memphis, Tenn.; two engineers, Francis L. Thomas, 25, Jonesboro, Ill., and Thomas Lovett, 25, Memphis; and deck hands Fred Haney, 24, of Joiner, Ark., and Jerry Cannon, 18, of Memphis.

The towboat—the Don Quinn of Memphis—sank in 28 feet of water 200 feet offshore while army engineers worked frantically to cut an escape hole through the hull to the men. Would-be rescuers said they heard men screaming and hammering against their iron-clad tomb as it sank an hour and a half after the collision.

A small boat put overside from the tanker—the Morris Hess of Perth Amboy, N. J.—picked up the four survivors.

None of the 38 crewmen on the tanker, carrying a cargo of fuel oil, was hurt. Only minor damage resulted to the ship and she proceeded upstream to her destination, Good Hope, La.

His Wings Are Fastened So Pigeon Walks Home

Copenhagen, July 6 (AP)—A tired carrier-pigeon came walking into a dove-cote in Copenhagen and fell asleep after having traveled 175 miles on his two feet.

Svend Christensen of Hammel, the pigeon's owner, said the bird had walked the distance in eight weeks. Christensen bought the pigeon in Copenhagen a couple of months back. He tied its wings with rubber bands to prevent it from returning to its old cote.

But the pigeon disappeared eight weeks ago. The owner assumed the cat had taken it, until a telephone call from Copenhagen notified him that the pigeon was back in the old pigeon-house, its wings still tied with the rubber band.

General Almond Gets Oak Leaf Cluster Award

Tokyo, July 6 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Edward M. Almond has been awarded the Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism and leadership of his U. S. Tenth Corps in Korea.

The general was cited for his actions from May 16 to 25 when his corps halted an attack by three Communist armies.

Among "countless acts of individual heroism" cited were six flights Almond made in an unarmed plane to go over the front.

On May 19 he turned his plane over to a tank platoon leader, joined the tank column and directed tank fire which silenced a Red machinegun firing on the tank beside which he crouched.

Almond won the DSC in the Inchon landing last fall.

Five May Be Dead In Sunken Boat

New Orleans, July 6 (AP)—Engineers planned today to raise a sunken towboat, believed to be the tomb of five crewmen who perished when it collided with a 10,000-ton tanker in the Mississippi river near here yesterday.

The four other members of the crew are in a hospital here recovering from injuries, shock and exposure. They escaped as the towboat capsized after the collision.

Listed as missing are the skipper, Robert W. Wilkerson, 50, of Memphis, Tenn.; two engineers, Francis L. Thomas, 25, Jonesboro, Ill., and Thomas Lovett, 25, Memphis; and deck hands Fred Haney, 24, of Joiner, Ark., and Jerry Cannon, 18, of Memphis.

The towboat—the Don Quinn of Memphis—sank in 28 feet of water 200 feet offshore while army engineers worked frantically to cut an escape hole through the hull to the men. Would-be rescuers said they heard men screaming and hammering against their iron-clad tomb as it sank an hour and a half after the collision.

A small boat put overside from the tanker—the Morris Hess of Perth Amboy, N. J.—picked up the four survivors.

None of the 38 crewmen on the tanker, carrying a cargo of fuel oil, was hurt. Only minor damage resulted to the ship and she proceeded upstream to her destination, Good Hope, La.

His Wings Are Fastened So Pigeon Walks Home

Copenhagen, July 6 (AP)—A tired carrier-pigeon came walking into a dove-cote in Copenhagen and fell asleep after having traveled 175 miles on his two feet.

Svend Christensen of Hammel, the pigeon's owner, said the bird had walked the distance in eight weeks. Christensen bought the pigeon in Copenhagen a couple of months back. He tied its wings with rubber bands to prevent it from returning to its old cote.

But the pigeon disappeared eight weeks ago. The owner assumed the cat had taken it, until a telephone call from Copenhagen notified him that the pigeon was back in the old pigeon-house, its wings still tied with the rubber band.

Decoy Signal Said To Have Lured Two

Wiesbaden, Germany, July 6 (AP)—A decoy radio signal from Prague may have lured two American jet fighter planes off their course into Communist Czechoslovakia last month, U. S. Air Force officers disclosed today.

The officers said reports of a fake signal from the Czech capital duplicating the guiding beam from Nuremberg, West Germany, "could well be true."

The pilots of the two planes, Lt. Luther G. Roland and his Norwegian student pilot, Lt. Bjoern Johansen, were released on July 4 after four weeks detention in Czechoslovakia. The two had made forced landings at the field near Prague on June 8.

Roland, of Hummelstown, Pa., told a news conference yesterday he had radio difficulty and had followed the Nuremberg beam for some time before becoming completely lost.

A U. S. Air Force official, who declined to be identified, said it was very likely a decoy signal was used.

"It is not a new trick by any means," he said.

FIRM HANDLING OF PEACE BID

The Russian peace proposal offers hope to the millions of people who would like to see an end to the fighting and something approximating real peace established in this war-weary world.

Or does it? Is it an honest attempt to negotiate at last a dispute that has already claimed thousands of lives and cost billions of dollars in war expense and destruction of property? Or is it another crafty Kremlin trick to lull the U. S. and its UN Allies into a feeling of false optimism? Is it a trick to split the Allies by causing dissension among them over the actual peace terms?

Those questions have to be asked by any sensible person because of Russia's long record of diplomatic duplicity, double-crossing and shameless dishonesty in her international dealings. They have to be asked despite UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie's assurance that the Soviets' motives are sincere and their off-hand peace bid should be taken seriously. They have to be asked because a wise man always reaches for a grain of salt when listening to pious utterances from a known liar.

So while Mr. Malik's gambit offers hope to some, it also confronts President Truman, the State Department and their opposite numbers among our UN Allies with a keen challenge. It is a challenge to their judgment and their ability to come through when the chips are down in an international poker game in which one player has no compunction about using a marked deck and hiding a few aces up his sleeve.

By their handling of the situation the President and his advisers have a chance to redeem themselves with many citizens throughout the country who feel that Truman-Acheson and company have demonstrated something less than dynamic leadership in their handling of the whole problem of Communistic expansion in Asia.

Because of previous sad experience of those naive enough to take Russian promises at face value, it is only the part of wisdow to retain a healthy skepticism until the Reds' sincerity is proved beyond doubt. But that does not mean that we should lead the UN along the path of timidity. The burden of proof of sincerity is on Russia. By taking a firm stand with her and refusing to be stampeded by wishful thinking, we can call her hand and make her put her cards on the table. Then perhaps our diplomats will learn that Russia doesn't hold all the trumps they had credited her with. Or that she is just trying to cheat again.

CRITICISM IN RUSSIA

One common impression about Russia is not quite accurate. It is generally thought that there is no public criticism of Soviet institutions. This is true as to the fundamental doctrines of Communism, but not as to the handling of administrative details.

Recently Izvestia, an official newspaper in Moscow, made a vigorous attack on the government mail-order house, which apparently has been accepting money from customers without delivering the goods, and asked how long the ministry of trade was going to tolerate "such an outrage." Publicity of this kind is often the means employed to introduce the correction of an error, and is usually followed by prompt action by the unit of government attacked.

Apparently it is not all criticism but merely unauthorized criticism which is prohibited in Russia. Some American newspaper editors might wish that they could publish an attack against a government bureau with equal assurance of speedy and effective action. But few of them would be willing to sacrifice the rest of their freedom of criticism for that advantage.

BACK TO THE OLD DAYS

A crime that supposedly had long ago passed out of the picture is reported from Michigan. It is cattle rustling. Some dairy cows and pigs have been stolen from several different farms. The meat shortage is blamed.

During the last war it looked at one time as if the gasoline shortage might bring back the days of horse-drawn vehicles. Presumably with them would return the obsolete crime of horse-thievery.

'These Days'

UNBEATABLE POWER

The truce with Russia in Korea can imperil the United States as much as peace can if the administration pursues the policies, which followed V-J Day, of Pollyannaish hope for virtue in our enemies and a demobilization of our might on the assumption that we can suddenly and at great cost mobilize to defeat the enemy in a war.

The Korean war proved that both policies were not only erroneous but dangerous to our national existence.

Soviet Russia clearly cannot give up its program of conquering the world for Marxism, by whatever means are available and wherever a soft spot is found. This means, for us, a permanent "cold war," a process to which we are unaccustomed and for which this nation has neither a liking nor facilities.

The State Department covered up Russian machinations of this type in the hope that they would cease; we now know that we are stuck with them and that the truce in Korea, of whatever nature, must be regarded as limited as the war there was. Until the Soviet program of world conquest is abandoned or defeated, no nation is safe.

And that means, for every country—those that desire to be pacifist or neutral or isolated as well as those who respect and will defend their integrity—a constant half-state of war. This is a costly, wasteful, disconcerting process which can only bring dissatisfaction among the people. This dissatisfaction is actually a Soviet weapon. In China, war-wariness was a weapon; in Korea, the division of the country; in Iran, antagonism for the British; in India and Pakistan, the Cashmir incident; in Germany, the zonal system; in some western European countries, the fact that the Marshall Plan money has not filtered at all or sufficiently from the government to the people.

For Russia, everything becomes a weapon because Maxism is a dynamic, fighting, fanatical cause that believes all progress results from struggle and strife, and therefore Stalin seeks struggle and strife.

Anyone who talks of this is going to make himself unpopular because the world is crying for peace after 37 years of war or the consequences of war. Yet, I feel that this caution is necessary at this time as it was in 1938, when I courted unpopularity by suggesting that the peril to world peace was not Hitler but Stalin. To say that then was anathema; today it is called hindsight by those who lacked the courage then to face the truth.

There can be no let-up in making this country a sufficiently strong military power to defend itself. The testimony of the joint chiefs of staff is unsatisfactory because it is impossible to know for sure whether their descriptions of our weaknesses were accurate or designed to influence Congress to pass appropriation bills. These military men made such an unsure and contradictory a record before the Russell Committee that they cause doubt as to their sincerity.

This is unfortunate because a nation in constant peril of war must respect its military men and believe them. The slightest doubt may mean the loss of the lives of thousands of men and perhaps defeat.

Furthermore, the unification act has one defect, namely, that the chiefs of staff are too distant from the President; the chairman of the joint chiefs has become a politician; the secretary of defense is master of the situation.

On such an escalator, the expert is too far down the line. As the realistic facts pass from him to the President, what actually comes to the President may be a very distorted picture. The view of General Bradley that he cannot criticize the President's ideas, that he gives his advice and if it is rejected, his is to do or die—is nonsense.

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff is employed as an expert for a civilian president who is expected to be an expert. No matter how competent the President, he cannot know everything and therefore such specially trained men are hired. They must be courageous men who are not overawed by anyone's office.

The people feel that, and if the Russell Committee accomplished nothing else, it damaged confidence in our top military set-up. While it is American tradition that there should be civilian control of the military, it is not American tradition or practice that curbstone judgments should prevail. Unbeatable power must rest on public confidence in responsible men.

That Body of Yours

THIRD MOLAR MAY CAUSE SYMPTOMS

Wisdom teeth, the third molars, are supposed to come when we acquire wisdom—manhood or womanhood. While they may not bring wisdom, they often bring various aches and pains, some of which can affect the general health and happiness of the individual. Dentists today speak of them only as third molars and are concerned with their influence should they not erupt properly.

So important is the third molar that the Modern Treatment Year Book devotes a whole chapter to it, written by Dr. Gerald Jack, consulting dental surgeon to St. Mark's Hospital, London. Dr. Jack points out that in our present state of civilzation the mouth of man is becoming smaller, so much smaller that there is not room for all the teeth which have not decreased in size proportionately. This means that the third molar is cramped for room in its efforts to erupt long after the rest of the teeth are well established. The tooth may be buried in the jawbone for a long time without producing the slightest symptoms of affecting the health in any way, or it may, in its efforts to erupt or come through the jawbone cause, by pressure or infection, cause slight or severe symptoms, some of which may lead to death. Thus the third molar, and in particular the lower third molar, has now become a factor of considerable importance in medicine and dentistry.

Because the lower third molar has a loose gum attachment, it is more easily infected. Even when fully erupted, it has a ditch or pocket in its neck between the gum and tooth which contains products of decomposition.

Not having enough room to erupt properly, the third molar causes pain and swelling in cheek or gum. Neuralgic pain may be caused by the upper or lower third molar erupting forward, causing pressure on the root of the tooth in front. The pressure may expose the nerve of the tooth in front and cause infection and severe pain. This may affect the general health, especially mental health; various mental conditions have been corrected by removal of the third molar and its infection and products of infection.

Among the mental conditions which may be caused by infection and pressure of the third molar are meningitis (inflammation of covering of the brain), encephalitis (inflammation of the brain itself), brain abscess, Herpes Zoster (shingles), convulsions, hysteria, and various neuroses.

'I'll Go to the Front—You Take the Back

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—In the middle of last week's hectic battle over price controls, President Truman called Leo De Orsay, attorney for radio star Arthur Godfrey, and begged him to beg Godfrey to go on the radio and arouse the public for price controls.

This personal appeal by a pathetic President, battling almost alone, illustrates the greatest loss Truman has suffered—the inability to mobilize public opinion for him.

It also illustrates the greatest asset Franklin Roosevelt had—the ability to appeal over the heads of congressmen to the public. Congress never liked Franklin Roosevelt. Most of them did not agree with his policies. But they feared him because they knew that, with the voters, he was stronger than they.

Today just the opposite is true, and members of Congress whose specialty is keeping their ears to the ground know it. They know that the President has waged so many puny, personal feuds, called so many people names, tolerated such laxness among the cronies around him that his ammunition is spent.

They know that having fired his big shells at Paul Hume, the music critic, and at Bernie Baruch, and the marine corps, the President has nothing but bird-shot left to fire at senators who fail to support him on price controls. They know that having called Senator Fulbright "asinine" when he probed RFC scandals, and having tolerated mink coats and deep freezes in his own official family, the President can call the congressmen no names that will hurt them with the voters when they vote against him.

They also know, in their hearts, that the President is right about price controls. They know that inflation can be the first step toward depression. But they also know that Washington is more crowded with lobbyists than at anytime in years; and it is the big cattle, cotton and real-estate groups that contribute heaviest to their campaigns. The housewife doesn't contribute. Sometimes she doesn't even vote.

Those are some of the reasons why the President's own senate leader, Ernest McFarland of Arizona voted against him; why Mike Monroney, the new senator from Oklahoma, who had the courage to champion the old OPA; why Wyoming's Joe Mahoney, supposedly an administration leader—all turned their back on Harry Truman. And Harry Truman, unable to rally the people, but still courageously battling, appealed to Arthur Godfrey to come to his aid.

More Kickbacks

Three congressmen have been caught by this column accepting "kickbacks" from their employes. Two were brought to trial and found guilty—J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey and Walter Brehm of Ohio, both Republicans. However, the Justice Department has done nothing about the third, Congressman Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma. He is a Democrat.

Meanwhile, this column regrets to report another kickback scandal, though no congressmen are involved. It is just as much against the law for a government contractor to take "kickbacks" and swear out false payrolls, as it is for congressmen. Yet this is what Maultsby and Sutton, Inc., of Pensacola, Fla., has been doing.

This firm has been repairing the lighting at the Pensacola Naval Air Station. Since this is a government contract, the firm is supposed to comply with the Davis-Bacon Act which sets minimum labor standards for government projects, and Maultsby and Sutton have sworn out affidavits that they are paying full, legal wages.

Yet the sworn payrolls list some employes as receiving more money than they were actually paid. For example, George B. Crain, a journeyman, was listed on the payroll at a salary of $2.00 per hour. Yet all he received in his pay envelope was $1:50 per hour. Differences such as this would make Maultsby and Sutton able to submit lower bids than their competitors.

Crain has sworn out an affidavit against Maultsby and Sutton, formally charging that he "did receive $1.50 per hour and at no time have I received $2.00 per hour as stated on the payrolls which I have examined."

Previous Error

This isn't the first time Maultsby and Sutton have been careless about the Davis-Bacon Act. In 1949, the firm was charged by the navy with "certain irregularities," but excused because the navy "felt at that time that there might be some excuse for their apparent disregard of the provisions of the law, since this was believed to be their first government formal contract and they were inexperienced in the administration of such matters."

So reported George Robinson, officer in charge of construction at Pensacola.

"As a result of this previous experience," Robinson added, "the officer in charge of construction issued instructions to assure that in the event Maultsby and Sutton were low bidders in any future work that they be fully informed of their responsibilities in connection with the Davis-Bacon Act."

As a result, Maultsby personally was reminded of his previous violations and was warned to comply with the law, specifically the wage and hour provisions, before his firm was awarded its present navy contract.

"Mr. Maultsby assured that he would abide by the requirements, maintain records in proper order and submit all necessary reports and data promptly," Robinson reported to the Navy Department in Washington.

The Texas Elks, who gave General MacArthur the $6,000 Cadillac, have found themselves holding the bag for about $2,000. They expected some of the big oilmen to make up the kitty for the Cadillac, but the money didn't come in as expected....Congressman Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania, who helped write the new tax bill, is expecting another $600 personal exemption. He already has five, and he doesn't care much whether the new one is a boy or a girl....The British, who don't particularly like Trygve Lie, have been grooming a Dutchman, Van Heuven Goldhardt, to be the next secretary-general of the United Nations. However, Goldhardt has made a botch of his present UN refugee job, wasted $100,000 given him by the Ford Foundation by paying for a survey, when all the facts on refugees are already known without spending any money....July 3 was the fifth anniversary of signing the National Health Act, first legislation for nation-wide efforts to control mental illness. Fewer Dogs

New York, July 6 (AP)—The city's licensed dog population is dropping, and thereby hangs a sad tale. An official of the Society of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said yesterday that canines are being barred in new public housing projects as well as in some private apartments. Dog tag licenses dropped from 300,304 in 1949 to 280,754 last year, he said, and the trend is still downward.

At birth, the approximate weight of a baby elephant is between 160 and 200 pounds.

President's July 4th Address Indicates His Ghost Writers May Be on Vacation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 6 — Whoever helps President Truman draft his speeches must be on vacation or something, because the Independence Day address contains some sentences that prompted today an arching of eyebrows in various quarters.

One section, addressed to the men in Korea, read as follows:

"Victory may be in your hands, but you are winning a greater thing than military victory, for you are vindicating the idea of freedom under international law."

The foregoing may originally have read "victory may not be in your hands" and somebody may have thought it was probably indiscreet to say so, though it's the truth. Just what "victory may be in your hands," followed by a "but," means is difficult to interpret. Certainly if victory isn't now in the hands of the U.N. forces, it isn't going to be without further fighting. It could be that under the new techniques of the Department of State's broadcasters, victories over a ruthless army are accomplished by talking—by diplomatic discussion. Some light on this may be shed perhaps by noting a "Voice of America" broadcast sponsored by the Department of State on Monday of this week, which said:

"The end of the war seems definitely in sight . . . unless the Communist reply (on truce talks) is a diabolical hoax, then we are witness to a victory of historic proportions. Not the victory of unconditional surrender nor the classic victory represented by the heel of the conqueror on the neck of the conquered; but rather the kind of victory that comes when a free community springs to action and puts out a forest fire which threatens to consume it. And having put out the fire once, the people will know how to stamp it out again if someone is careless enough to start it again . .

"To any other satellite which might be pressed into a war by proxy against the U.N. the lesson stands out amid the ruins and dead soldiers in Korea, it isn't worth the sacrifice; you get nothing out of it; you can't win."

Surely the same words can be spoken by the Communists, for they, too, already are saying that the intervention in Korea will teach the western nations a lesson and that they — the U.N. forces — didn't win, and got nothing out of it except casualties.

As for the "forest fire" simile which now supersedes the "police action" in Korea, as the President described it a year ago, it perhaps also takes precedence over the remark about "traffic accidents" referred to in another Truman speech recently as he compared the deaths in Korea to the accidents on American highways every day.

Certainly the claim that the "free community" sprang into action isn't borne out by the figures which show that less than 50,000 troops were contributed by 14 UN nations with 240,000,000 population whereas America and South Korea contributed in excess of 350,000. Likewise, 40 countries outside the Russian bloc, comprising 740,000,000 population, contributed no troops at all. It doesn't seem as if the bulk of the free nations "sprang into action."

The "Voice of America" broadcast, moreover, apparently is trying to condition not only the people of foreign countries but also the American People to the idea that there is something reprehensible about "victory" such as was won by the American troops and their Allies in World War 1 and World War 2. The impression which the "voice" evidently seeks to convey is that victory can be a victory even when it isn't a victory. It will be a little hard to put that thought across in the face of the fact that nearly 80,000 American casualties are a matter of record and the UN forces stand today approximately where they stood before the outbreak of the war that swept across the 38th Parallel a year ago.

The President said further in his July 4th speech:

"We have taken collective measures to suppress aggression, and we are suppressing it."

Yet the record shows that, although the United Nations passed a resolution branding Red China as an aggressor and ordered that "collective measures" be taken, not a single measure has since been taken by the UN to suppress the aggression by the Red China regime, which doesn't even admit that it is responsible for the operations of "Chinese volunteers" in Korea.

The prize ambiguity, however, is in this sentence of Mr. Truman's address:

"Now, at last, the Communist leaders have offered to confer about an armistice. It may be that they have decided to give up their aggression in Korea. If that is true, the road to a peaceful settlement of the Korean conflict is open."

It was the UN that begged for the armistice and sent the first message offering to confer. Likewise, it is a strange war when the commander-in-chief of the supposedly "victorious" side doesn't know whether or not he has defeated the enemy and whether he has won the principal objective of the UN—to repel and punish aggression and assure Korea against a recurrence of aggression. It is even stranger to see an American commander in Korea—acting for the UN—dealing with a white flag without requiring that the emissaries from the other side carry a white flag, too. Small wonder that the Communist radio and press is proclaiming the "victory" they, too, think they have won.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The historical record of betrayal by the Roosevelt-Hopkins-Communist cabal is slowly revealing itself like an image on a film left undeveloped during the intervening years. It will be shadowy in some phases, as the guilty men would prefer, but the picture is more distinct day by day. I have dealt with admissions of drunkenness and other misconduct in Moscow by bureaucrats of the Roosevelt regime including generals who were not equipped by knowledge to cope with the Russians and lacked the patriotic manhood to stand up to such sycophants as Harriman and Stettinius and fight for American interests against those toadies.

Today, I begin to reveal the treatment of a young American pilot at the insistence of the Russians and the abject surrender to the Russians of a Polish man, presumably a patriot, to be put to death as a saboteur.

In his memoirs, entitled "The Strange Alliance," John R. Deane, major general, the head of our corps of flunkeys at Stalin's imperial court, tells of this incident in a way which leaves important questions unanswered and leaves Deane himself in no enviable position.

General Deane told of an attempt by a crew of American airmen to "smuggle" out of Poland a "discontented" Polish citizen and of the severe treatment dealt these patriotic young Americans by compatriots who certainly should have been more diligent to protect their interest than to please the Kremlin.

Myron Lyzon King, now of 411 Thompson Lane, Nashville, Tenn., was the pilot of an American bomber which had made a raid on German territory and had landed on a Polish field. The Americans were supposed to fly on to Poltava, the base which the Russians, after long haggling, had graciously opened to American bombers to spare them the risk of flying back to their own bases in western Europe. King and his crew laid up on this Polish field for three days trying to fix a disabled engine. They were about to take off when an American C-47, with Russian insignia, a "lend-lease" plane, came down and a group of Russians, led by a general, alighted and began to question King and his men. The general presently ordered the Americans to follow his plane to Poltava.

When he approached the American plane, the Russian general was accompanied by some junior officers and another man wearing a mixed uniform of British and Russian military clothing, who

FIRM HANDLING OF PEACE BID

The Russian peace proposal offers hope to the millions of people who would like to see an end to the fighting and something approximating real peace established in this war-weary world.

Or does it? Is it an honest attempt to negotiate at last a dispute that has already claimed thousands of lives and cost billions of dollars in war expense and destruction of property? Or is it another crafty Kremlin trick to lull the U. S. and its UN Allies into a feeling of false optimism? Is it a trick to split the Allies by causing dissension among them over the actual peace terms?

Those questions have to be asked by any sensible person because of Russia's long record of diplomatic duplicity, double-crossing and shameless dishonesty in her international dealings. They have to be asked despite UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie's assurance that the Soviets' motives are sincere and their off-hand peace bid should be taken seriously. They have to be asked because a wise man always reaches for a grain of salt when listening to pious utterances from a known liar.

So while Mr. Malik's gambit offers hope to some, it also confronts President Truman, the State Department and their opposite numbers among our UN Allies with a keen challenge. It is a challenge to their judgment and their ability to come through when the chips are down in an international poker game in which one player has no compunction about using a marked deck and hiding a few aces up his sleeve.

By their handling of the situation the President and his advisers have a chance to redeem themselves with many citizens throughout the country who feel that Truman-Acheson and company have demonstrated something less than dynamic leadership in their handling of the whole problem of Communistic expansion in Asia.

Because of previous sad experience of those naive enough to take Russian promises at face value, it is only the part of wisdow to retain a healthy skepticism until the Reds' sincerity is proved beyond doubt. But that does not mean that we should lead the UN along the path of timidity. The burden of proof of sincerity is on Russia. By taking a firm stand with her and refusing to be stampeded by wishful thinking, we can call her hand and make her put her cards on the table. Then perhaps our diplomats will learn that Russia doesn't hold all the trumps they had credited her with. Or that she is just trying to cheat again.

CRITICISM IN RUSSIA

One common impression about Russia is not quite accurate. It is generally thought that there is no public criticism of Soviet institutions. This is true as to the fundamental doctrines of Communism, but not as to the handling of administrative details.

Recently Izvestia, an official newspaper in Moscow, made a vigorous attack on the government mail-order house, which apparently has been accepting money from customers without delivering the goods, and asked how long the ministry of trade was going to tolerate "such an outrage." Publicity of this kind is often the means employed to introduce the correction of an error, and is usually followed by prompt action by the unit of government attacked.

Apparently it is not all criticism but merely unauthorized criticism which is prohibited in Russia. Some American newspaper editors might wish that they could publish an attack against a government bureau with equal assurance of speedy and effective action. But few of them would be willing to sacrifice the rest of their freedom of criticism for that advantage.

BACK TO THE OLD DAYS

A crime that supposedly had long ago passed out of the picture is reported from Michigan. It is cattle rustling. Some dairy cows and pigs have been stolen from several different farms. The meat shortage is blamed.

During the last war it looked at one time as if the gasoline shortage might bring back the days of horse-drawn vehicles. Presumably with them would return the obsolete crime of horse-thievery.

UNBEATABLE POWER

The truce with Russia in Korea can imperil the United States as much as peace can if the administration pursues the policies, which followed V-J Day, of Pollyannaish hope for virtue in our enemies and a demobilization of our might on the assumption that we can suddenly and at great cost mobilize to defeat the enemy in a war.

The Korean war proved that both policies were not only erroneous but dangerous to our national existence.

Soviet Russia clearly cannot give up its program of conquering the world for Marxism, by whatever means are available and wherever a soft spot is found. This means, for us, a permanent "cold war," a process to which we are unaccustomed and for which this nation has neither a liking nor facilities.

The State Department covered up Russian machinations of this type in the hope that they would cease; we now know that we are stuck with them and that the truce in Korea, of whatever nature, must be regarded as limited as the war there was. Until the Soviet program of world conquest is abandoned or defeated, no nation is safe.

And that means, for every country—those that desire to be pacifist or neutral or isolated as well as those who respect and will defend their integrity—a constant half-state of war. This is a costly, wasteful, disconcerting process which can only bring dissatisfaction among the people. This dissatisfaction is actually a Soviet weapon. In China, war-wariness was a weapon; in Korea, the division of the country; in Iran, antagonism for the British; in India and Pakistan, the Cashmir incident; in Germany, the zonal system; in some western European countries, the fact that the Marshall Plan money has not filtered at all or sufficiently from the government to the people.

For Russia, everything becomes a weapon because Maxism is a dynamic, fighting, fanatical cause that believes all progress results from struggle and strife, and therefore Stalin seeks struggle and strife.

Anyone who talks of this is going to make himself unpopular because the world is crying for peace after 37 years of war or the consequences of war. Yet, I feel that this caution is necessary at this time as it was in 1938, when I courted unpopularity by suggesting that the peril to world peace was not Hitler but Stalin. To say that then was anathema; today it is called hindsight by those who lacked the courage then to face the truth.

There can be no let-up in making this country a sufficiently strong military power to defend itself. The testimony of the joint chiefs of staff is unsatisfactory because it is impossible to know for sure whether their descriptions of our weaknesses were accurate or designed to influence Congress to pass appropriation bills. These military men made such an unsure and contradictory a record before the Russell Committee that they cause doubt as to their sincerity.

This is unfortunate because a nation in constant peril of war must respect its military men and believe them. The slightest doubt may mean the loss of the lives of thousands of men and perhaps defeat.

Furthermore, the unification act has one defect, namely, that the chiefs of staff are too distant from the President; the chairman of the joint chiefs has become a politician; the secretary of defense is master of the situation.

On such an escalator, the expert is too far down the line. As the realistic facts pass from him to the President, what actually comes to the President may be a very distorted picture. The view of General Bradley that he cannot criticize the President's ideas, that he gives his advice and if it is rejected, his is to do or die—is nonsense.

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff is employed as an expert for a civilian president who is expected to be an expert. No matter how competent the President, he cannot know everything and therefore such specially trained men are hired. They must be courageous men who are not overawed by anyone's office.

The people feel that, and if the Russell Committee accomplished nothing else, it damaged confidence in our top military set-up. While it is American tradition that there should be civilian control of the military, it is not American tradition or practice that curbstone judgments should prevail. Unbeatable power must rest on public confidence in responsible men.

That Body of Yours

THIRD MOLAR MAY CAUSE SYMPTOMS

Wisdom teeth, the third molars, are supposed to come when we acquire wisdom—manhood or womanhood. While they may not bring wisdom, they often bring various aches and pains, some of which can affect the general health and happiness of the individual. Dentists today speak of them only as third molars and are concerned with their influence should they not erupt properly.

So important is the third molar that the Modern Treatment Year Book devotes a whole chapter to it, written by Dr. Gerald Jack, consulting dental surgeon to St. Mark's Hospital, London. Dr. Jack points out that in our present state of civilzation the mouth of man is becoming smaller, so much smaller that there is not room for all the teeth which have not decreased in size proportionately. This means that the third molar is cramped for room in its efforts to erupt long after the rest of the teeth are well established. The tooth may be buried in the jawbone for a long time without producing the slightest symptoms of affecting the health in any way, or it may, in its efforts to erupt or come through the jawbone cause, by pressure or infection, cause slight or severe symptoms, some of which may lead to death. Thus the third molar, and in particular the lower third molar, has now become a factor of considerable importance in medicine and dentistry.

Because the lower third molar has a loose gum attachment, it is more easily infected. Even when fully erupted, it has a ditch or pocket in its neck between the gum and tooth which contains products of decomposition.

Not having enough room to erupt properly, the third molar causes pain and swelling in cheek or gum. Neuralgic pain may be caused by the upper or lower third molar erupting forward, causing pressure on the root of the tooth in front. The pressure may expose the nerve of the tooth in front and cause infection and severe pain. This may affect the general health, especially mental health; various mental conditions have been corrected by removal of the third molar and its infection and products of infection.

Among the mental conditions which may be caused by infection and pressure of the third molar are meningitis (inflammation of covering of the brain), encephalitis (inflammation of the brain itself), brain abscess, Herpes Zoster (shingles), convulsions, hysteria, and various neuroses.

'I'll Go to the Front—You Take the Back

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—In the middle of last week's hectic battle over price controls, President Truman called Leo De Orsay, attorney for radio star Arthur Godfrey, and begged him to beg Godfrey to go on the radio and arouse the public for price controls.

This personal appeal by a pathetic President, battling almost alone, illustrates the greatest loss Truman has suffered—the inability to mobilize public opinion for him.

It also illustrates the greatest asset Franklin Roosevelt had—the ability to appeal over the heads of congressmen to the public. Congress never liked Franklin Roosevelt. Most of them did not agree with his policies. But they feared him because they knew that, with the voters, he was stronger than they.

Today just the opposite is true, and members of Congress whose specialty is keeping their ears to the ground know it. They know that the President has waged so many puny, personal feuds, called so many people names, tolerated such laxness among the cronies around him that his ammunition is spent.

They know that having fired his big shells at Paul Hume, the music critic, and at Bernie Baruch, and the marine corps, the President has nothing but bird-shot left to fire at senators who fail to support him on price controls. They know that having called Senator Fulbright "asinine" when he probed RFC scandals, and having tolerated mink coats and deep freezes in his own official family, the President can call the congressmen no names that will hurt them with the voters when they vote against him.

They also know, in their hearts, that the President is right about price controls. They know that inflation can be the first step toward depression. But they also know that Washington is more crowded with lobbyists than at anytime in years; and it is the big cattle, cotton and real-estate groups that contribute heaviest to their campaigns. The housewife doesn't contribute. Sometimes she doesn't even vote.

Those are some of the reasons why the President's own senate leader, Ernest McFarland of Arizona voted against him; why Mike Monroney, the new senator from Oklahoma, who had the courage to champion the old OPA; why Wyoming's Joe Mahoney, supposedly an administration leader—all turned their back on Harry Truman. And Harry Truman, unable to rally the people, but still courageously battling, appealed to Arthur Godfrey to come to his aid.

More Kickbacks

Three congressmen have been caught by this column accepting "kickbacks" from their employes. Two were brought to trial and found guilty—J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey and Walter Brehm of Ohio, both Republicans. However, the Justice Department has done nothing about the third, Congressman Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma. He is a Democrat.

Meanwhile, this column regrets to report another kickback scandal, though no congressmen are involved. It is just as much against the law for a government contractor to take "kickbacks" and swear out false payrolls, as it is for congressmen. Yet this is what Maultsby and Sutton, Inc., of Pensacola, Fla., has been doing.

This firm has been repairing the lighting at the Pensacola Naval Air Station. Since this is a government contract, the firm is supposed to comply with the Davis-Bacon Act which sets minimum labor standards for government projects, and Maultsby and Sutton have sworn out affidavits that they are paying full, legal wages.

Yet the sworn payrolls list some employes as receiving more money than they were actually paid. For example, George B. Crain, a journeyman, was listed on the payroll at a salary of $2.00 per hour. Yet all he received in his pay envelope was $1:50 per hour. Differences such as this would make Maultsby and Sutton able to submit lower bids than their competitors.

Crain has sworn out an affidavit against Maultsby and Sutton, formally charging that he "did receive $1.50 per hour and at no time have I received $2.00 per hour as stated on the payrolls which I have examined."

Previous Error

This isn't the first time Maultsby and Sutton have been careless about the Davis-Bacon Act. In 1949, the firm was charged by the navy with "certain irregularities," but excused because the navy "felt at that time that there might be some excuse for their apparent disregard of the provisions of the law, since this was believed to be their first government formal contract and they were inexperienced in the administration of such matters."

So reported George Robinson, officer in charge of construction at Pensacola.

"As a result of this previous experience," Robinson added, "the officer in charge of construction issued instructions to assure that in the event Maultsby and Sutton were low bidders in any future work that they be fully informed of their responsibilities in connection with the Davis-Bacon Act."

As a result, Maultsby personally was reminded of his previous violations and was warned to comply with the law, specifically the wage and hour provisions, before his firm was awarded its present navy contract.

"Mr. Maultsby assured that he would abide by the requirements, maintain records in proper order and submit all necessary reports and data promptly," Robinson reported to the Navy Department in Washington.

Fewer Dogs

New York, July 6 (AP)—The city's licensed dog population is dropping, and thereby hangs a sad tale. An official of the Society of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said yesterday that canines are being barred in new public housing projects as well as in some private apartments. Dog tag licenses dropped from 300,304 in 1949 to 280,754 last year, he said, and the trend is still downward.

President's July 4th Address Indicates His Ghost Writers May Be on Vacation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 6 — Whoever helps President Truman draft his speeches must be on vacation or something, because the Independence Day address contains some sentences that prompted today an arching of eyebrows in various quarters.

One section, addressed to the men in Korea, read as follows:

"Victory may be in your hands, but you are winning a greater thing than military victory, for you are vindicating the idea of freedom under international law."

The foregoing may originally have read "victory may not be in your hands" and somebody may have thought it was probably indiscreet to say so, though it's the truth. Just what "victory may be in your hands," followed by a "but," means is difficult to interpret. Certainly if victory isn't now in the hands of the U.N. forces, it isn't going to be without further fighting. It could be that under the new techniques of the Department of State's broadcasters, victories over a ruthless army are accomplished by talking—by diplomatic discussion. Some light on this may be shed perhaps by noting a "Voice of America" broadcast sponsored by the Department of State on Monday of this week, which said:

"The end of the war seems definitely in sight . . . unless the Communist reply (on truce talks) is a diabolical hoax, then we are witness to a victory of historic proportions. Not the victory of unconditional surrender nor the classic victory represented by the heel of the conqueror on the neck of the conquered; but rather the kind of victory that comes when a free community springs to action and puts out a forest fire which threatens to consume it. And having put out the fire once, the people will know how to stamp it out again if someone is careless enough to start it again . .

"To any other satellite which might be pressed into a war by proxy against the U.N. the lesson stands out amid the ruins and dead soldiers in Korea, it isn't worth the sacrifice; you get nothing out of it; you can't win."

Surely the same words can be spoken by the Communists, for they, too, already are saying that the intervention in Korea will teach the western nations a lesson and that they — the U.N. forces — didn't win, and got nothing out of it except casualties.

As for the "forest fire" simile which now supersedes the "police action" in Korea, as the President described it a year ago, it perhaps also takes precedence over the remark about "traffic accidents" referred to in another Truman speech recently as he compared the deaths in Korea to the accidents on American highways every day.

Certainly the claim that the "free community" sprang into action isn't borne out by the figures which show that less than 50,000 troops were contributed by 14 UN nations with 240,000,000 population whereas America and South Korea contributed in excess of 350,000. Likewise, 40 countries outside the Russian bloc, comprising 740,000,000 population, contributed no troops at all. It doesn't seem as if the bulk of the free nations "sprang into action."

The "Voice of America" broadcast, moreover, apparently is trying to condition not only the people of foreign countries but also the American People to the idea that there is something reprehensible about "victory" such as was won by the American troops and their Allies in World War 1 and World War 2. The impression which the "voice" evidently seeks to convey is that victory can be a victory even when it isn't a victory. It will be a little hard to put that thought across in the face of the fact that nearly 80,000 American casualties are a matter of record and the UN forces stand today approximately where they stood before the outbreak of the war that swept across the 38th Parallel a year ago.

The President said further in his July 4th speech:

"We have taken collective measures to suppress aggression, and we are suppressing it."

Yet the record shows that, although the United Nations passed a resolution branding Red China as an aggressor and ordered that "collective measures" be taken, not a single measure has since been taken by the UN to suppress the aggression by the Red China regime, which doesn't even admit that it is responsible for the operations of "Chinese volunteers" in Korea.

The prize ambiguity, however, is in this sentence of Mr. Truman's address:

"Now, at last, the Communist leaders have offered to confer about an armistice. It may be that they have decided to give up their aggression in Korea. If that is true, the road to a peaceful settlement of the Korean conflict is open."

It was the UN that begged for the armistice and sent the first message offering to confer. Likewise, it is a strange war when the commander-in-chief of the supposedly "victorious" side doesn't know whether or not he has defeated the enemy and whether he has won the principal objective of the UN—to repel and punish aggression and assure Korea against a recurrence of aggression. It is even stranger to see an American commander in Korea—acting for the UN—sending messages with a white flag without requiring that the emissaries from the other side carry a white flag, too. Small wonder that the Communist radio and press is proclaiming the "victory" they, too, think they have won.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The historical record of betrayal by the Roosevelt-Hopkins-Communist cabal is slowly revealing itself like an image on a film left undeveloped during the intervening years. It will be shadowy in some phases, as the guilty men would prefer, but the picture is more distinct day by day. I have dealt with admissions of drunkenness and other misconduct in Moscow by bureaucrats of the Roosevelt regime including generals who were not equipped by knowledge to cope with the Russians and lacked the patriotic manhood to stand up to such sycophants as Harriman and Stettinius and fight for American interests against those toadies.

Today, I begin to reveal the treatment of a young American pilot at the insistence of the Russians and the abject surrender to the Russians of a Polish man, presumably a patriot, to be put to death as a saboteur.

In his memoirs, entitled "The Strange Alliance," John R. Deane, major general, the head of our corps of flunkeys at Stalin's imperial court, tells of this incident in a way which leaves important questions unanswered and leaves Deane himself in no enviable position.

General Deane told of an attempt by a crew of American airmen to "smuggle" out of Poland a "discontented" Polish citizen and of the severe treatment dealt these patriotic young Americans by compatriots who certainly should have been more diligent to protect their interest than to please the Kremlin.

Myron Lyzon King, now of 411 Thompson Lane, Nashville, Tenn., was the pilot of an American bomber which had made a raid on German territory and had landed on a Polish field. The Americans were supposed to fly on to Poltava, the base which the Russians, after long haggling, had graciously opened to American bombers to spare them the risk of flying back to their own bases in western Europe. King and his crew laid up on this Polish field for three days trying to fix a disabled engine. They were about to take off when an American C-47, with Russian insignia, a "lend-lease" plane, came down and a group of Russians, led by a general, alighted and began to question King and his men. The general presently ordered the Americans to follow his plane to Poltava.

When he approached the American plane, the Russian general was accompanied by some junior officers and another man wearing a mixed uniform of British and Russian military clothing, who

The art course will be taught at New Paltz Teachers College, and speech education will be given at Geneseo. Both are four-year courses. Buffalo State Teachers College has 300 enrolled in the university's only special art course now offered. New York, July 6 (AP)—The National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., July 6—Today, July 6, is my birthday and my trusted accountant has given me a very nice birthday present. He calls to my attention that in view of my age and now being off the payroll, I can receive old-age insurance of $80 per month.

He further states that persons who are 75 or over can continue to work and draw old-age benefits. I, like other employed persons, have had money deducted from my pay check since 1937, but I gave this no attention, believing that the amount received would be insignificant. But considering how quickly the months speed by as we get older, $80 coming so often looks pretty good.

But the above is not the best of it. This $80 per month which an eligible person receives is nontaxable. If he happens to be in the 50 per cent tax bracket, this is equivalent to a check every month of $160, which certainly is not to be sneezed at. When the deduction from our pay checks was increased January 1, 1950, we were kind of sore about it. We forgot that Social Security benefits were likewise increased. Under last year's amendments a family can receive as much as $1,800 per year as opposed to the old maximum of $1,020.

Inflation May Not Be Too Bad

Some of the pessimists who are always knocking Truman and talking about inflation say that the purchasing power of your old-age insurance benefits in the years ahead won't be much use to you on account of inflation. This could be a serious affair if we now paid for these benefits in one lump sum. Readers, however, will not be doing this. If your Social Security benefits when they are paid will be in depreciated dollars, then the payments which are deducted from your pay check will also be in depreciated dollars, at least so far as the average is concerned.

I use this same argument to cheer up life insurance salesmen who are troubled as to what the value of the dollar will be twenty years hence. I assure them that though the dollar may be much more depreciated at that time, yet, if the premiums are paid in installments from now until then, they also will be paid to a large extent with depreciated dollars. Furthermore, remember that your increase in salary is largely due to the declining value of the dollar. Hence, considering all things, you will not suffer so much as you think you may and perhaps not at all.

Speaking of Taxation

In giving this column to my accountant friend to read over, he suggested that I add "When a person reaches 65 and becomes eligible for old-age insurance benefits, his wife is also entitled to one-half his benefits provided she is also 65 or over and is not entitled to higher benefits based on her own earnings." This is something worth looking up; also the taxable feature of life insurance. For instance, when I took out, as a young man, $40,000 worth of life insurance, the agent told me that this $40,000 was exempt from taxation. I now find that if I pay the premium and own the policies completely, my life insurance money will be subject to the Federal Estate Tax the same as stocks or bonds.

The Revenue Act of 1948 does make an exception for a married man to this extent: If the proceeds of the insurance is payable to your wife for to a trustee under certain conditions) within 13 months of your death, it is not taxable. The money in such a case, however, must be subject to her sole control. The above means that my readers should immediately talk their insurance over with an agent that knows his stuff. There are other technicalities which I cannot cover in this column. The main thing to remember is that if you give your wife the proceeds of your insurance to do as she wishes with, it will probably be exempt up to $40,000; but if you try to be too specific and state how the money is to be used, or give it to other beneficiaries, it may be subject to taxation.

Two New Courses

Albany, N. Y., July 6 (AP)—Courses in art education and speech education will be added to the State University's teacher-training program next September. The art course will be taught at New Paltz Teachers College, and speech education will be given at Geneseo. Both are four-year courses. Buffalo State Teachers College has 300 enrolled in the university's only special art course now offered. The New Paltz program will give similar training to students from the eastern part of the state. Speech education will be offered at Geneseo only.

'Monopoly' Is Charged

New York, July 6 (AP)—The National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. was charged yesterday by some 1,000 Protestant ministers with promoting "the idea of the inclusivist church" and with "establishing itself as a monoply." Making the charge was the American Council of Christian Churches, an organization which opposes the National Council. The American Council represents 14 small "separatist" denominations; the 1,000 ministers belong to 44 small denominations.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., July 6—Today, July 6, is my birthday and my trusted accountant has given me a very nice birthday present. He calls to my attention that in view of my age and now being off the payroll, I can receive old-age insurance of $80 per month.

He further states that persons who are 75 or over can continue to work and draw old-age benefits. I, like other employed persons, have had money deducted from my pay check since 1937, but I gave this no attention, believing that the amount received would be insignificant. But considering how quickly the months speed by as we get older, $80 coming so often looks pretty good.

But the above is not the best of it. This $80 per month which an eligible person receives is nontaxable. If he happens to be in the 50 per cent tax bracket, this is equivalent to a check every month of $160, which certainly is not to be sneezed at. When the deduction from our pay checks was increased January 1, 1950, we were kind of sore about it. We forgot that Social Security benefits were likewise increased. Under last year's amendments a family can receive as much as $1,800 per year as opposed to the old maximum of $1,020.

Inflation May Not Be Too Bad

Some of the pessimists who are always knocking Truman and talking about inflation say that the purchasing power of your old-age insurance benefits in the years ahead won't be much use to you on account of inflation. This could be a serious affair if we now paid for these benefits in one lump sum. Readers, however, will not be doing this. If your Social Security benefits when they are paid will be in depreciated dollars, then the payments which are deducted from your pay check will also be in depreciated dollars, at least so far as the average is concerned.

I use this same argument to cheer up life insurance salesmen who are troubled as to what the value of the dollar will be twenty years hence. I assure them that though the dollar may be much more depreciated at that time, yet, if the premiums are paid in installments from now until then, they also will be paid to a large extent with depreciated dollars. Furthermore, remember that your increase in salary is largely due to the declining value of the dollar. Hence, considering all things, you will not suffer so much as you think you may and perhaps not at all.

Speaking of Taxation

In giving this column to my accountant friend to read over, he suggested that I add "When a person reaches 65 and becomes eligible for old-age insurance benefits, his wife is also entitled to one-half his benefits provided she is also 65 or over and is not entitled to higher benefits based on her own earnings." This is something worth looking up; also the taxable feature of life insurance. For instance, when I took out, as a young man, $40,000 worth of life insurance, the agent told me that this $40,000 was exempt from taxation. I now find that if I pay the premium and own the policies completely, my life insurance money will be subject to the Federal Estate Tax the same as stocks or bonds.

The Revenue Act of 1948 does make an exception for a married man to this extent: If the proceeds of the insurance is payable to your wife (or to a trustee under certain conditions) within 13 months of your death, it is not taxable. The money in such a case, however, must be subject to her sole control. The above means that my readers should immediately talk their insurance over with an agent that knows his stuff. There are other technicalities which I cannot cover in this column. The main thing to remember is that if you give your wife the proceeds of your insurance to do as she wishes with, it will probably be exempt up to $40,000; but if you try to be too specific and state how the money is to be used, or give it to other beneficiaries, it may be subject to taxation.

Two children were injured in two minor traffic mishaps in the city this morning.

Frank Fay, Jr., 7, of 153 Linderman avenue, suffered injuries of the forehead and possible other injuries in a collision at Fair and Henry street at 9:48 a. m.

Joan Welck, 13, of 273 Hasbrouck avenue, suffered a slight injury of the left leg and reported that her back hurt when she was struck by a car near St. Mary's Church on Broadway at 10:15 a. m. Both were treated at Kingston Hospital.

The police report on the first mishap said a sedan operated by Edward Lamash, 409 West 176th street, New York, headed north on Fair street and a car driven by Frank L. Fay, 153 Linderman avenue, was headed east on Henry street, when they collided.

The injured boy, police said, struck his head against the windshield. Five stitches were used to close a cut over the left eye, three for another over the right eye and two for one on the right forehead, the report said. He was taken to the hospital in a police car by Officer Earl Schoonmaker while Officer Leonard Ellsworth handled traffic at the scene.

In the other mishap at 10:15 a. m., police said, Hanna C. Schroeder, 146 Levan street, was headed south on Broadway and was opposite St. Mary's Church when the girl ran from the church side of the street toward the convent side, and came in contact with the left front of the Schroeder car, the report said.

Town Flooded

Kanses City, July 6 (AP)—Heavy downpours of rain sent northwest Missouri streams on a rampage today. The Grand River and Big Creek were entering the southwest part of Pattonsburg, where seven inches of rain fell during the night. The town of 1,200 population was isolated and there was no telephone service. The Missouri state highway patrol reported residents of the lower sections of the town were being evacuated as the Grand River rose one foot an hour.

By Sight or Smell

Some ants, foraging for food, find their way back home by sight, while other varieties of these insects guide themselves homeward by their sense of smell.

ROOSTER GOES FOR A DUCK—It certainly must have been hot in Allentown, Pa., if it forced this rooster into the swimming pool of the Max Hess home to cool off. Playing with the duck-minded rooster is little Jean Hess, 7, who got him as an Easter present three months ago.

Less Steel for Consumers

Washington, July 6 (AP)—Consumer goods may get only about eight per cent of the country's steel after essential users get their share under the controlled materials plan (CMP), a Defense Production Agency (DPA) bulletin indicated today. The quantity left for consumer goods is roughly 1,700,000 tons in the July-September quarter. This is about half as much as the DPA reported last week would be available in the "free" steel market for autos, washing machines, freezers and other civilian hard goods.

Malik Changes Mind

New York, July 6 (AP)—Jacob A. Malik, leaving for a trip home to Russia, today shied away from newsreel microphones at first on grounds he would be censored, then changed his mind, and said a few friendly words. "I find that American newsreels and TV cut out much of things I said," the Soviet's chief United Nations delegate protested when asked to go before microphones before boarding the Swedish liner Grisholm.

Takes Dare, Man Dies

Port Dover, Ont., July 6 (AP)—George Collan, 19-year-old shooting gallery attendant, held a rifle to his head last night and dared a group of boys visiting the amusement spot to pull the trigger. Police said a 13-year-old Hamilton boy, apparently believing the gun was not loaded, finally stepped forward and pressed the trigger. Collan fell, a .22-caliber bullet in his brain. He died in the hospital three and a half hours later.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 6 (AP)—A swiftly rising stock market ran into difficulties today and quickly turned back.

A mixed price pattern spread over a range of around a dollar a share either way among leaders after an early start that pushed prices rapidly ahead.

Utilities did better than the rest, and there were some good plus signs in copper mining issues and chemicals. On the lower side were rails, aircrafts and some oils.

American & Foreign Power $6 and $7 preferreds shot up around 6 points in early trading and then dropped about half their gains. The lower priced common and second preferred were up fractionally. Buying was concentrated at the opening.

For the past three days the stock market has snapped back in a strong recovery from last week when prices broke under uncertainties surrounding preliminary negotiations for a Korean cease-fire.

Field Is Ordered

Court of Appeals Justice Thomas Swan would preside at an appeal hearing at 2 p. m. (EST) at the Yale Law School.

Ryan adjudged Field in contempt yesterday for his repeated refusals to tell who contributed to the bail fund.

The four missing leaders, who jumped bail earlier this week, are the object of a nation-wide FBI hunt in which the public has been asked to join.

In refusing to continue Field on parole pending the appeal hearing, Ryan said that to do so would be to recognize that "a substantial question of law or fact existed in this case."

Field had been on parole since being judged in contempt yesterday.

Ryan said he had permitted Field freedom over night on the theory that "a night's sober reflection might bring about the desire on the part of this man to give the court the information that it seeks."

Ryan has held that identities of the bail contributors are needed to help trace the missing men.

Plans Unchanged

Abadan, Iran, July 6 (AP)—Iranian officials said today their plans for taking over the Abadan refinery and nearby oil fields are unchanged and that no new instructions have been received from Tehran. Red Generals . . .

trip on Sunday morning. They will travel by helicopter or jeep, depending on the weather.

Gen. Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Gen. Peng Teh-huai of Chinese forces suggested the allies travel by jeep regardless of weather—"for their more certain safety and to cut down the possibility of misunderstanding."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, UN commander, promptly replied:

"My delegates will proceed by helicopter or jeep as dictated by the weather."

Poor Communications

The Communist suggestion they travel by road may have been an admission of their poor communications. Red prisoners taken in recent days on some sectors had not heard about the armistice talks. Red radios have said poor communication was the reason Generals Kim and Peng didn't agree to earlier meetings as Ridgway had suggested.

The Red generals' message Friday said "we undertake to assure * * * safe conduct" of the UN delegation.

In contrast, Ridgway flatly assured the Communist commanders their "convoy will be immune from attack by my forces."

Ridgway also guaranteed that the area within five miles of Kaesong would be respected as a neutral zone from the moment the Communist representatives arrive.

Each delegation will consist of three officers, two interpreters and necessary attached personnel such as drivers.

The Communist emissaries include one colonel. Reliable reports said Ridgway would be represented by three colonels — a marine, an airman and a South Korean.

Coverage Limited

Ridgway's headquarters said news coverage of the Kaesong meetings will be limited to official communiques. A daily communique is to be issued in the early evening (the early morning in the United States) summarizing the day's developments. Supplemental communiques will be issued if necessary.

Without explanation, work was halted on preparation of a UN peace train in Seoul. It stood lonely, deserted and locked in Seoul's battered railway station.

Workers had been converting Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet's combat train into a headquarters on wheels for the Allied armistice delegation, although a bombed out bridge would force it to halt short of Kaesong.

Instead, the Eighth Army began making ready three new mobile army kitchens. One is a shiny upholstered van, loaded with enough provisions to feed 55 persons for two weeks.

Election Date Set

Buenos Aires, Argentina, July 6 (AP)—The House of Representatives today advanced the date for the Argentine presidential elections to Nov. 11 of this year. They had been scheduled previously for Feb. 24, 1952.

UNCLE SAM'S BIGGEST—Here's one of the first pictures of the U. S. Army's new monster 73-ton tank, still in the experimental stage. Designated the T-30, it carries a crew of six, has a 155-mm. gun and an air-cooled, 810-HP engine capable of driving it 27 miles per hour. The tank is shown at New York City, where it will be part of an 18-car exhibition train at the U. S. Army's salute to the Erie Railroad's 100th anniversary.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 6 (AP)—A swiftly rising stock market ran into difficulties today and quickly turned back.

A mixed price pattern spread over a range of around a dollar a share either way among leaders after an early start that pushed prices rapidly ahead.

Utilities did better than the rest, and there were some good plus signs in copper mining issues and chemicals. On the lower side were rails, aircrafts and some oils.

American & Foreign Power $6 and $7 preferreds shot up around 6 points in early trading and then dropped about half their gains. The lower priced common and second preferred were up fractionally. Buying was concentrated at the opening.

For the past three days the stock market has snapped back in a strong recovery from last week when prices broke under uncertainties surrounding preliminary negotiations for a Korean cease-fire.

Field Is Ordered

Court of Appeals Justice Thomas Swan would preside at an appeal hearing at 2 p. m. (EST) at the Yale Law School.

Ryan adjudged Field in contempt yesterday for his repeated refusals to tell who contributed to the bail fund.

The four missing leaders, who jumped bail earlier this week, are the object of a nation-wide FBI hunt in which the public has been asked to join.

In refusing to continue Field on parole pending the appeal hearing, Ryan said that to do so would be to recognize that "a substantial question of law or fact existed in this case."

Field had been on parole since being judged in contempt yesterday.

Ryan said he had permitted Field freedom over night on the theory that "a night's sober reflection might bring about the desire on the part of this man to give the court the information that it seeks."

Ryan has held that identities of the bail contributors are needed to help trace the missing men.

Four Judges Concur

Four of the five appellate court justices concur in the majority opinion in favor of the City of New York which was written by Justice Heffernan. Justice Deyo dissented.

Corporation Counsel John P. McGrath, with Robert E. Hugh and Francis T. Murray, of counsel, appeared for the City of New York in the proceeding, and Mr. Murray argued the appeal for the city. Rudd, Penberthy and Nelson were attorneys for the Cooperative with Mr. Penberthy arguing the appeal.

Plans Unchanged

Abadan, Iran, July 6 (AP)—Iranian officials said today their plans for taking over the Abadan refinery and nearby oil fields are unchanged and that no new instructions have been received from Tehran. There was no sign Iran intended to comply with the recommendation of the International Court at The Hague that she suspend her nationalization program pending negotiations with the British.

Red Generals . . .

trip on Sunday morning. They will travel by helicopter or jeep, depending on the weather.

Gen. Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Gen. Peng Teh-huai of Chinese forces suggested the allies travel by jeep regardless of weather—"for their more certain safety and to cut down the possibility of misunderstanding."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, UN commander, promptly replied:

"My delegates will proceed by helicopter or jeep as dictated by the weather."

Poor Communications

The Communist suggestion they travel by road may have been an admission of their poor communications. Red prisoners taken in recent days on some sectors had not heard about the armistice talks. Red radios have said poor communication was the reason Generals Kim and Peng didn't agree to earlier meetings as Ridgway had suggested.

The Red generals' message Friday said "we undertake to assure * * * safe conduct" of the UN delegation.

In contrast, Ridgway flatly assured the Communist commanders their "convoy will be immune from attack by my forces."

Ridgway also guaranteed that the area within five miles of Kaesong would be respected as a neutral zone from the moment the Communist representatives arrive.

Each delegation will consist of three officers, two interpreters and necessary attached personnel such as drivers.

The Communist emissaries include one colonel. Reliable reports said Ridgway would be represented by three colonels — a marine, an airman and a South Korean.

Coverage Limited

Ridgway's headquarters said news coverage of the Kaesong meetings will be limited to official communiques. A daily communique is to be issued in the early evening (the early morning in the United States) summarizing the day's developments. Supplemental communiques will be issued if necessary.

Without explanation, work was halted on preparation of a UN peace train in Seoul. It stood lonely, deserted and locked in Seoul's battered railway station.

Workers had been converting Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet's combat train into a headquarters on wheels for the Allied armistice delegation, although a bombed out bridge would force it to halt short of Kaesong.

Instead, the Eighth Army began making ready three new mobile army kitchens. One is a shiny upholstered van, loaded with enough provisions to feed 55 persons for two weeks.

Cain Rushes Report On MacArthur Plan

Washington, July 6 (AP) — Senator Cain (R-Wash.) rushed work today on the preliminary draft of a proposed report declaring Gen. Douglas MacArthur has set forth "the only positive program" for winning the Korean war.

Cain described the draft as his "personal product," and said he does not expect majority support for it in the two Senate committees which conducted an eight-week inquiry into the firing of MacArthur by President Truman.

He said he is representing "six or seven" Republican members of the committees on a tentative basis in preparing the document.

Radar Stops Blackouts

Los Angeles, July 6 (AP)—Modern radar has precluded the necessity of complete blackouts in case of attack, says Rear Adm. R. H. Berry. Berry, Los Angeles civil defense director, said in an interview yesterday that radar-equipped bombers do not need lights to find their targets in the dark. But there undoubtedly will be "brown outs" and "dim outs" of street lights and blackout of bright advertising signs, he added.

"These cast a glow over a city that can be seen at sea by submarines and enemy fleets, sometimes up to 150 miles, and would aid attackers coming by sea," said Berry. "Street lights should be dimmed to reduce this glow, but left strong enough to permit necessary emergency traffic."

Note that the silken ease you enjoy with Dynaflow* goes hand in hand with real money savings in maintenance costs.

Above all, note what a Buick's price tag includes – how much more sheer automobile you get in a Buick than the same money would buy elsewhere.

How to make Wise Tracks to a Beauty

How do you buy a new car?

Are you one of those people who buy on love at first sight?

Or do you check cars feature for feature, price for price—then pick the one that gives you the most for your money?

Whichever you are, we'd like to suggest that you come in and see our 1951 Buicks.

It's a sure bet you'll go for the swift, smart look of a SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—fall seriously in love with the pace and power of its bonnet-filling engine.

And it's a cinch you'll go for the room and richness of those Buick interiors – the serene smoothness of Dynaflow Drive* and all-coil springing.

But don't let your emotion be the only judge – be sure to get the practical picture too.

Note that the power that gives you such a big kick here comes from Buick's famed valve-in-head Fireball Engine—which means you get a lot of miles from each gallon of gas you buy.

Note that the silken ease you enjoy with Dynaflow* goes hand in hand with real money savings in maintenance costs.

Above all, note what a Buick's price tag includes – how much more sheer automobile you get in a Buick than the same money would buy elsewhere.

How about making tracks to our showroom right soon – checking thoroughly into the matter – and see if you don't fall in love with a smart-buy Buick?

NO OTHER CAR PROVIDES ALL THIS:

DYNAFLOW DRIVE* — saves strain on driver and car
FIREBALL ENGINE — high-compression, valve-in-head — gets more miles from every tank of fuel
PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT — combines smart style and unsurpassed protection
WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS — greater clarity at night
TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE — seals the chassis, steadies ride, improves driving control
4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING — cushions ride, saves servicing costs
SELF-ENERGIZING BRAKES — hydraulic — multiply pedal-pressure five times at brake drum
DREAMLINE STYLING — tapered, car-length fenders, gleaming sweepspears on most models
Plus: Self-locking luggage lid, StopOn parking brake, two-way ignition lock, Safety-Ride rims, Hi-Poised engine mounting, Body by Fisher

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them.

"Smart Buy's Buick"

Not Always Wrong

Folks can't be wrong all the time,
I heard a wise man say,
For even watches that won't run
Are right twice every day.
—Mrs. Louise Rathbun.

Harry — I suppose at the efficiency expert's wedding you didn't do anything so wasteful as throwing rice.

Charles — Oh, yes we did; but as a concession to his teaching we had the rice done up in cotton bags, each missile weighing two pounds.

Few things are harder to put up with than the annoyance of a good example.—Mark Twain.

"Everybody laughed when I sat down at the piano, but when the little redheaded contralto gave me the key of A flat—boy, how I accompanied her."

Marriage entitles women to the protection of strong men who steady the stepladder for them while they paint the kitchen ceiling.

Fear is a weed that can gain a stranglehold if it is allowed to grow. Scoring children into obedience by threats of the bogeyman or darkness may cause them to develop nervous fears that last all their lives. Teach your child to analyse the things he fears and help him to understand that harmless things won't hurt him.

The man had just bought a cigar in a department store and started to light it.

Sales Girl — Didn't you notice the sign?

Man—You mean you sell cigars and prohibit smoking them?

Sales Girl—We also sell bath towels.

Lot's wife looked back and turned into a pillar of salt.

Business Cost

Washington, July 6 (AP)—An advertising man has quoted Secretary of the Treasury Snyder as saying "normal and reasonable expenditures" for advertising will continue to be deductible as a business cost in income tax returns. After conferring with Snyder yesterday, Kai Jorgensen of Los Angeles told reporters: "The secretary said the free dissemination of news depends largely on the advertising that makes newspapers both possible and profitable. He also assured me that normal and reasonable expenditures for advertising will remain deductible as a business cost."

New York state produces about 26 per cent of the national printing volume, leading the United States in this industry.

Poor Player Wins As Defense Errors

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

If North had been a good player he would have played today's hand at three no-trump. He wouldn't have made that contract, because the defenders would have had to go pretty far out of their way to let him win nine tricks.

Actually, North was a poor player, so South insisted on going on to four spades. Curiously enough, this contract also was "impossible" — but it was fairly easy for the defense to make a fatal error.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and South won with the ace. Declarer then led his singleton heart and allowed West to hold the trick with the nine of hearts.

At this point West should have sniffed the scent of danger. Obviously South did not have either the ace or king of hearts. Just as obviously, South was planning to ruff hearts in his hand. This was bound to establish dummy's hearts in short order. The only hope was to lead a club to set up tricks at once in the only suit that offered a chance for defensive tricks.

West didn't like the looks of the clubs, so led another diamond. This was the fatal slip.

Dummy won with the queen of diamonds, and South ruffed a heart. Dummy then took the queen of spades, and South ruffed another heart. This established dummy's queen.

South next laid down the ace and king of trumps, leaving East with the last trump. Dummy was entered with the king of diamonds, and the queen of hearts was led. East could ruff—but then he had no tricks to cash. If the ace of clubs had been knocked out East could have taken two clubs at this point to set the contract.

As it was East had to return a club, whereupon dummy took the ace of clubs and the last heart. The result was that North gained because he was known to be a poor player.

The writer is at present attending the 11th NATIONAL TOWNSEND CONVENTION in Detroit, Michigan, continuing from Monday, July 2nd. — Friday, July 6th speakers at the morning and afternoon opening sessions included DR. FRANCIS E. TOWNSEND, Founder and Leader of the Townsend Organization, and his son ROBERT C. TOWNSEND, National Treasurer, who delivered the keynote address. The HON. G. MENNEN WILLIAMS, Governor of the State of Michigan, extended an official welcome to the more than 3500 delegates assembled, stating that his state has a Commission for Aging of which he and George Woodson, Townsend Representative in the state, are members. MR. TILFORD E. DUDLEY, Assistant Director of the C.I.O. from Washington, D.C., was given a lusty ovation at the conclusion of his address. Among other things, Mr. Dudley stated that PRICES have increased 29% over a 2 year period, WAGES 22% and CORPORATION PROFITS 70% — in this time. Mr. Dudley and the C.I.O. are ever striving to improve the living conditions of the workers in our nation; Dr. Townsend and his affiliates are striving to improve conditions for those 60 and over who must retire through adversity or who so desire to, and the last speaker of the day — MR. CLARK TIBBITTS, Chairman of the FEDERAL SECURITY AGENCY, wrestles with the problems of the older workers who wish to continue in employment and are physically able to do so. Mr. Tibbits proclaimed DR. FRANCIS E. TOWNSEND as the ONE person who has made the nation CONSCIOUS of the vital problems concerning the aging.

MAN'S ENGAGEMENT RING

A newly engaged young woman asks: "Why isn't it custom for the girl to give the man an engagement ring the way she often does give him a wedding ring?"

There is no reason in the world why she may not give him a ring if she wants to, and he would like to wear one. But please let her make very sure of this before she buys one for him. Usually an engagement ring is only one given by the man to the girl. The man is very seldom given a ring, or in fact, any present at all.

Family Acknowledgment of Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Post: There are five married children in our family, sons and daughters both, and a father. We've recently lost our mother and as we received some hundred sympathy cards, many with notes attached as well as floral pieces, we'd like to know how to acknowledge them all so as to include everyone.

Answer: The one who is the most intimate friend of each donor should write the note of thanks. This "note" need be no more than the fewest words written on a visiting card. It is entirely proper that any one of the sons or daughters write thanks for the father.

No Presents, Please!

Dear Mrs. Post: Was it improper to write on some of my graduation announcements "No presents, please?" I had good reason to feel that otherwise those who received them would think they ought to send me gifts and I didn't want that. "I'm being censured for having done this.

Answer: Actually, an announcement (of anything) carried no obligation to send a present. However, with your "good reason to feel otherwise" about some people's understanding of this rule, I think your kind intention should not have been misunderstood.

Replying to Intimate Friends

Dear Mrs. Post: When intimate friends send a formally worded wedding invitation, should this be answered in the third person just the same?

Answer: Yes, if the wedding is so large that the invitations are being handled by a professional secretary. Otherwise you write a brief note or most likely answer verbally.

Which members of the family of the bridegroom-to-be should visit the bride and her family? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-1, "Announcing the Engagement," explains the above procedure. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Giordino-Trinkle Nuptials Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Trinkle of 45 Murray street have announced the marriage of their daughter, Kathleen M., to Frederick Giordino, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Giordino of Cementon.

The ceremony was performed June 16 at 3 p. m. in St. Mary's Church, this city, by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of that parish.

For her wedding the bride wore a two-piece shell pink crepe street length dress with white accessories and a white rosebud corsage. Her only attendant was Mrs. Dolores Krom of 83 Chambers street. She was dressed in a two-piece beige ensemble, with white accessories, and a pink rosebud corsage. Edward Trinkle, Jr., brother of the bride, was best man.

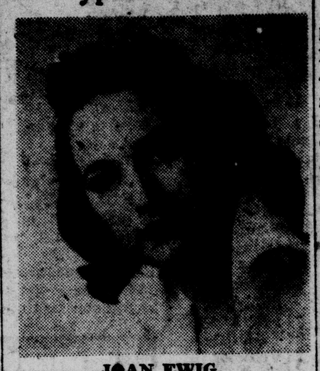
Joan Ewig's Portrait To Be Hung in Paris As 'Typical American'



JOAN EWIG

A 19-year-old aspiring actress, Miss Joan Ewig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Ewig, 261 Pearl street, has been chosen by Paul Meltsner as subject for his conception of "the typical American girl." Mr. Meltsner, who is now vacationing in Woodstock, describes himself "as the only living American artist represented in the Luxembourg Museum in Paris." Not long ago he is said to have received an official request from the French government for a second painting, portraying a characteristic American girl type.

"Several of the movie companies in Hollywood offered me the use of their stars as a model for the proposed painting," Mr. Meltsner writes. "My final choice, however, is Miss Ewig."

Miss Ewig, who was graduated from Kingston High School with the class of '49 is now a student in the Drama Department of the School of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh. Last summer she appeared at the Woodstock Playhouse under the direction of Margaret Webster. Now a Broadway role may be in the offing. According to Mr. Meltsner, "it is quite likely that she may have a part in a play based upon my autobiographical book, Canvas Mirror, which has been optioned for Broadway production in the near future."

Mr. Meltsner, of course, is no stranger to the art world. Emily Genauer, known best among New York critics for her sometimes acid pen, has called him "an American artist who has made for himself an enviable reputation of rare ability." According to the Art Digest, "his compositions, constructed on vigorous lines, are touched with drama," and Carlyle Burrows of New York Herald Tribune fame, has described him as a painter "who gets broad vitality into his forms, and force in his compositions."

Mr. Meltsener's easel has housed the face and form of many movieland celebrities, including Gertrude Lawrence, Carmen Miranda, and the late John Barrymore. His painting of Howard Lindsay and Dorothy Stickney as they appeared in Life With Father is in the permanent collection of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. During the third war loan drive, eight of his paintings brought $3,000,000 in bonds, and a study of Professor Einstein brought a record price, $1,000,000, all in bonds. Meanwhile his book, Canvas Mirror, from which the play will be adapted, is due for publication shortly.

Skilled Workers Gain; Sales Personnel Drops

Albany, N. Y., July 6 (AP)—New York state's employed labor force has jumped 800,000 since 1940 to a record 5,762,000.

The 16 per cent increase was reported today by the State Commerce Department.

The department said the number of women employed had increased from 29 to 31 per cent of the total.

The greatest proportionate increase in the overall total since 1940 was in skilled workers. The increase of 220,000 represented a 36 per cent gain in 10 years.

The most noticeable decline was in sales personnel. No statistics were given, but the department attributed the decline to "a trend toward fewer but larger retail stores and an increase in self-service merchandising."

The report also showed "a marked trend" away from private household work.

The writer is at present attending the 11th NATIONAL TOWNSEND CONVENTION in Detroit, Michigan, continuing from Monday, July 2nd. — Friday, July 6th speakers at the morning and afternoon opening sessions included DR. FRANCIS E. TOWNSEND, Founder and Leader of the Townsend Organization, and his son ROBERT C. TOWNSEND, National Treasurer, who delivered the keynote address. The HON. G. MENNEN WILLIAMS, Governor of the State of Michigan, extended an official welcome to the more than 3500 delegates assembled, stating that his state has a Commission for Aging of which he and George Woodson, Townsend Representative in the state, are members. MR. TILFORD E. DUDLEY, Assistant Director of the C.I.O. from Washington, D.C., was given a lusty ovation at the conclusion of his address. Among other things, Mr. Dudley stated that PRICES have increased 29% over a 2 year period, WAGES 22% and CORPORATION PROFITS 70% — in this time. Mr. Dudley and the C.I.O. are ever striving to improve the living conditions of the workers in our nation; Dr. Townsend and his affiliates are striving to improve conditions for those 60 and over who must retire through adversity or who so desire to, and the last speaker of the day — MR. CLARK TIBBITTS, Chairman of the FEDERAL SECURITY AGENCY, wrestles with the problems of the older workers who wish to continue in employment and are physically able to do so. Mr. Tibbits proclaimed DR. FRANCIS E. TOWNSEND as the ONE person who has made the nation CONSCIOUS of the vital problems concerning the aging.

President Kingston Townsend Club No. 1.

MAN'S ENGAGEMENT RING

A newly engaged young woman asks: "Why isn't it custom for the girl to give the man an engagement ring the way she often does give him a wedding ring?"

There is no reason in the world why she may not give him a ring if she wants to, and he would like to wear one. But please let her make very sure of this before she buys one for him. Usually an engagement ring is only one given by the man to the girl. The man is very seldom given a ring, or in fact, any present at all.

Family Acknowledgment of Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Post: There are five married children in our family, sons and daughters both, and a father. We've recently lost our mother and as we received some hundred sympathy cards, many with notes attached as well as floral pieces, we'd like to know how to acknowledge them all so as to include everyone.

Answer: The one who is the most intimate friend of each donor should write the note of thanks. This "note" need be no more than the fewest words written on a visiting card. It is entirely proper that any one of the sons or daughters write thanks for the father.

No Presents, Please!

Dear Mrs. Post: Was it improper to write on some of my graduation announcements "No presents, please?" I had good reason to feel that otherwise those who received them would think they ought to send me gifts and I didn't want that. "I'm being censured for having done this.

Answer: Actually, an announcement (of anything) carried no obligation to send a present. However, with your "good reason to feel otherwise" about some people's understanding of this rule, I think your kind intention should not have been misunderstood.

Replying to Intimate Friends

Dear Mrs. Post: When intimate friends send a formally worded wedding invitation, should this be answered in the third person just the same?

Answer: Yes, if the wedding is so large that the invitations are being handled by a professional secretary. Otherwise you write a brief note or most likely answer verbally.

Which members of the family of the bridegroom-to-be should visit the bride and her family? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-1, "Announcing the Engagement," explains the above procedure. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Giordino-Trinkle Nuptials Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Trinkle of 45 Murray street have announced the marriage of their daughter, Kathleen M., to Frederick Giordino, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Giordino of Cementon.

The ceremony was performed June 16 at 3 p. m. in St. Mary's Church, this city, by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of that parish.

For her wedding the bride wore a two-piece shell pink crepe street length dress with white accessories and a white rosebud corsage. Her only attendant was Mrs. Dolores Krom of 83 Chambers street. She was dressed in a two-piece beige ensemble, with white accessories, and a pink rosebud corsage. Edward Trinkle, Jr., brother of the bride, was best man.

Joan Ewig's Portrait To Be Hung in Paris As 'Typical American'

JOAN EWIG

A 19-year-old aspiring actress, Miss Joan Ewig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Ewig, 261 Pearl street, has been chosen by Paul Meltsner as subject for his conception of "the typical American girl." Mr. Meltsner, who is now vacationing in Woodstock, describes himself "as the only living American artist represented in the Luxembourg Museum in Paris." Not long ago he is said to have received an official request from the French government for a second painting, portraying a characteristic American girl type.

"Several of the movie companies in Hollywood offered me the use of their stars as a model for the proposed painting," Mr. Meltsner writes. "My final choice, however, is Miss Ewig."

Miss Ewig, who was graduated from Kingston High School with the class of '49 is now a student in the Drama Department of the School of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh. Last summer she appeared at the Woodstock Playhouse under the direction of Margaret Webster. Now a Broadway role may be in the offing. According to Mr. Meltsner, "it is quite likely that she may have a part in a play based upon my autobiographical book, Canvas Mirror, which has been optioned for Broadway production in the near future."

Mr. Meltsner, of course, is no stranger to the art world. Emily Genauer, known best among New York critics for her sometimes acid pen, has called him "an American artist who has made for himself an enviable reputation of rare ability." According to the Art Digest, "his compositions, constructed on vigorous lines, are touched with drama," and Carlyle Burrows of New York Herald Tribune fame, has described him as a painter "who gets broad vitality into his forms, and force in his compositions."

Mr. Meltsener's easel has housed the face and form of many movieland celebrities, including Gertrude Lawrence, Carmen Miranda, and the late John Barrymore. His painting of Howard Lindsay and Dorothy Stickney as they appeared in Life With Father is in the permanent collection of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. During the third war loan drive, eight of his paintings brought $3,000,000 in bonds, and a study of Professor Einstein brought a record price, $1,000,000, all in bonds. Meanwhile his book, Canvas Mirror, from which the play will be adapted, is due for publication shortly.

Winning projects, with the exception of those in the special open division, will be sent on to Chicago for the competition's national finals, which will be held there next month. Meanwhile nearly 1,000 entries, gathered from 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia, will be on exhibit at Franklin Institute July 5-15.

Offered this year in the youth program are cash prizes totaling $35,000, and nine all-expense trips to Dearborn and Detroit, Mich. Students enrolled in junior and senior high school vocational and industrial art classes were eligible to enter projects in the competition which they had made during the school term as part of their regular class work.

Skilled Workers Gain; Sales Personnel Drops

Albany, N. Y., July 6 (AP)—New York state's employed labor force has jumped 800,000 since 1940 to a record 5,762,000.

The 16 per cent increase was reported today by the State Commerce Department.

The department said the number of women employed had increased from 29 to 31 per cent of the total.

The greatest proportionate increase in the overall total since 1940 was in skilled workers. The increase of 220,000 represented a 36 per cent gain in 10 years.

The most noticeable decline was in sales personnel. No statistics were given, but the department attributed the decline to "a trend toward fewer but larger retail stores and an increase in self-service merchandising."

The report also showed "a marked trend" away from private household work.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time mention of Mrs. Herbt M. Ausman (formerly Sadee Bigelow) of 227 Nelson street, Saratoga Springs in this column has brought some interesting response. For instance she just enclosed a letter to me from Mrs. Anna Murray Gilson of 535 E. 14th street, New York city, which reads in part: "My sister, Rosalie, in Kingston often sends me clippings from the Kingston Freeman, "Do You Remember? She knew I would be interested when I read your name. You mentioned Father Watson, wasn't he wonderful? My sister, Stella, and I have a lovely memory of him at Graymoor. I have been getting the "Lamp" since Dr. Burtsell introduced "The Paul" in St. Mary's Church. That is a good many years ago. Had a very nice week in Kingston during Memorial Day week, but most of my friends have gone to heaven. Pete is dead since 1922."

Mrs. Ausman wrote with the above enclosure: "The enclosed, came from a friend I had lost traces of for many, many years. She was with Dr. Kennedy's Corp. the three years I was their auditing clerk....so many thanks to you for bringing us together. Perhaps you know Anna Murray, Mrs. Peter Gilson? Her husband was also with the Kennedy Corp. during the gay 90's. He with Mrs. William's father, James Cogan, made the Favorite Remedy, in the laboratory upstairs. It came down from huge vats, through tubes, into the bottling room, into the containers resembling a large coffee urn. When the faucet was turned on, it filled the bottles and labels were put on. Then it was ready for shipping.

"Mrs. Gilson possessed a marvelous singing voice and was in great demand for the leading parts in all our home talent plays, and there were quite a few in those days." So two friends have come together, through this column over nearly a half a century of losing sight of each other. They should have many happy memories of those days in Kingston to correspond about.

Harry Siemsen of Sawkill called me that he read where I mentioned the tea room which used to be in what is now Montgomery and Ward store, back in Herbert Carl's day. He told me to call Mrs. Lizzie Hoover, at 995-M1 as she worked in that tea room, facing the magnificent Catskills from the picture window. I remember it in Rose and Gorman days, when even then I thought it would make an ideal spot for a tea room. It seems, when Carl sold out, the kitchen part of the balcony became the office of the new store. The other part was left for rest rooms, with the large window still at the pleasure of the customers. Mrs. Hoover says she has some of the old Menu's and other papers around the house of this tea room.

Fred Longendyke of 88 Hasbrouck avenue just brought me over some labels from Carl G. Fischer's place when it used to be on the Strand near the Big Ferry. One is called "Invalid Port—rare vintage elegant fruit made from choicest grapes. Fischer's estab. 1870. Rondout, City of Kingston, N. Y." The other one is "Gold Seal Whiskey, from Carl G. Fischer, sole distributor for U.S.A." The third was "Fischer's Tonic Tokay." Perhaps some of the folks remember these rare beverages.

Building New Center

New York, July 5 (AP)—The Salvation Army's Bowery corps stopped functioning last night on the "Street of Forgotten Men" for the first time in 28 years—but only for 12 months. The shutdown will last just long enough to put up a new building, which will include a 'drying out center" for alcoholics.

Seven Miners Killed

Hetton-Le-Hole, Eng., July 6 (AP) — Seven coal miners were killed and two injured in an explosion at Eppleton colliery early today. About 600 other miners escaped the blast, which early reports said may have been caused by accumulated gases.

As Pegler Sees It

acted as the general's interpreter. To lighten his plane for the trip to Poltava, King sent several of his crew over to the Russian general's ship, but just as he was about to take off to follow the Russians, King was told by his crew chief that the interpreter was in the stern of the American C-54. King told his crew-chief to put the man off, but by that time the Russian plane was taking off and King humanely decided not to dump the stranger on the Polish field with no overcoat in winter weather. King concluded that no harm could be done by flying the general's interpreter to the same destination where he could rejoin the general.

At Poltava, however, the Russian general could not be found. King listed the mysterious stranger as "Jack Smith" on his manifest.

Hours later, the Russian general reappeared and, using a dictionary instead of his Polish interpreter, asked King how "Smith" got there. King told him the truth, adding that he had regarded "Smith" as the general's interpreter. The general thought King should not have taken this for granted but said it was not important, anyway, and could be forgotten.

King later stated that he had been informed that "Smith" was taken out and shot by the Russians.

All American planes in Poland and Russia were immediately grounded and King was flown to Moscow for a court-martial which, in the opinion of a competent authority, "is probably unparalleled in its violations of procedures and the substantive right of the accused." This authority who has reviewed the documents, charges that members of the court testified for the prosecution and that the record is "replete with hearsay and irrelevant evidence." It includes, he reports, a "wild and erratic deposition" by General Antonov, the Russian who bulldozed the timid American functionaries sent to Russia by Harriman and Stettinius to persuade the Russians to accept billions of dollars worth of American industrial gear with which to create the industrial power that now enables the sworn enemy of those days to initiate World War 3 in Korea. General Deane describes Antonov as a forceful man.

The legal point is now made that whatever the status of "Smith" may have been in the original Russian group there was no proof that he was a saboteur.

At the demand of the Kremlin, King was tried by an American court-martial with only a medical officer as his counsel. He was fined $600. He also suffered an official reprimand, an important blot on an officer's record. The reprimand was written by General Deane. The Secretary of War approved the punishments and King is still in disgrace to this extent.

After all this time, King is still afraid of the power of the air force to persecute him, an appeal is being prepared for a review and vindication, but King refuses to talk lest mention of his case will so anger the air force that he will never get fair treatment. The judge advocate general of the air force will have the last word in the matter however, and in other shocking experiences of American airmen in Russia.

The King case has been smothered all this time, originally out of the obsequiousness of certain Americans toward the Russians, and later out of a determination, for obvious reasons, to conceal the facts from the American public.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time mention of Mrs. Herbt M. Ausman (formerly Sadee Bigelow) of 227 Nelson street, Saratoga Springs in this column has brought some interesting response. For instance she just enclosed a letter to me from Mrs. Anna Murray Gilson of 535 E. 14th street, New York city, which reads in part: "My sister, Rosalie, in Kingston often sends me clippings from the Kingston Freeman, "Do You Remember? She knew I would be interested when I read your name. You mentioned Father Watson, wasn't he wonderful? My sister, Stella, and I have a lovely memory of him at Graymoor. I have been getting the "Lamp" since Dr. Burtsell introduced "The Paul" in St. Mary's Church. That is a good many years ago. Had a very nice week in Kingston during Memorial Day week, but most of my friends have gone to heaven. Pete is dead since 1922."

Mrs. Ausman wrote with the above enclosure: "The enclosed, came from a friend I had lost traces of for many, many years. She was with Dr. Kennedy's Corp. the three years I was their auditing clerk....so many thanks to you for bringing us together. Perhaps you know Anna Murray, Mrs. Peter Gilson? Her husband was also with the Kennedy Corp. during the gay 90's. He with Mrs. William's father, James Cogan, made the Favorite Remedy, in the laboratory upstairs. It came down from huge vats, through tubes, into the bottling room, into the containers resembling a large coffee urn. When the faucet was turned on, it filled the bottles and labels were put on. Then it was ready for shipping.

"Mrs. Gilson possessed a marvelous singing voice and was in great demand for the leading parts in all our home talent plays, and there were quite a few in those days." So two friends have come together, through this column over nearly a half a century of losing sight of each other. They should have many happy memories of those days in Kingston to correspond about.

Harry Siemsen of Sawkill called me that he read where I mentioned the tea room which used to be in what is now Montgomery and Ward store, back in Herbert Carl's day. He told me to call Mrs. Lizzie Hoover, at 995-M1 as she worked in that tea room, facing the magnificent Catskills from the picture window. I remember it in Rose and Gorman days, when even then I thought it would make an ideal spot for a tea room. It seems, when Carl sold out, the kitchen part of the balcony became the office of the new store. The other part was left for rest rooms, with the large window still at the pleasure of the customers. Mrs. Hoover says she has some of the old Menu's and other papers around the house of this tea room.

Fred Longendyke of 88 Hasbrouck avenue just brought me over some labels from Carl G. Fischer's place when it used to be on the Strand near the Big Ferry. One is called "Invalid Port —rare vintage elegant fruit made from choicest grapes. Fischer's estab. 1870. Rondout, City of Kingston, N. Y." The other one is "Gold Seal Whiskey, from Carl G. Fischer, sole distributor for U.S.A." The third was "Fischer's Tonic Tokay." Perhaps some of the folks remember these rare beverages.

As Pegler Sees It

acted as the general's interpreter. To lighten his plane for the trip to Poltava, King sent several of his crew over to the Russian general's ship, but just as he was about to take off to follow the Russians, King was told by his crew chief that the interpreter was in the stern of the American C-54. King told his crew-chief to put the man off, but by that time the Russian plane was taking off and King humanely decided not to dump the stranger on the Polish field with no overcoat in winter weather. King concluded that no harm could be done by flying the general's interpreter to the same destination where he could rejoin the general.

At Poltava, however, the Russian general could not be found. King listed the mysterious stranger as "Jack Smith" on his manifest.

Hours later, the Russian general reappeared and, using a dictionary instead of his Polish interpreter, asked King how "Smith" got there. King told him the truth, adding that he had regarded "Smith" as the general's interpreter. The general thought King should not have taken this for granted but said it was not important, anyway, and could be forgotten.

King later stated that he had been informed that "Smith" was taken out and shot by the Russians.

All American planes in Poland and Russia were immediately grounded and King was flown to Moscow for a court-martial which, in the opinion of a competent authority, "is probably unparalleled in its violations of procedures and the substantive right of the accused." This authority who has reviewed the documents, charges that members of the court testified for the prosecution and that the record is "replete with hearsay and irrelevant evidence." It includes, he reports, a "wild and erratic deposition" by General Antonov, the Russian who bulldozed the timid American functionaries sent to Russia by Harriman and Stettinius to persuade the Russians to accept billions of dollars worth of American industrial gear with which to create the industrial power that now enables the sworn enemy of those days to initiate World War 3 in Korea. General Deane describes Antonov as a forceful man.

The legal point is now made that whatever the status of "Smith" may have been in the original Russian group there was no proof that he was a saboteur.

At the demand of the Kremlin, King was tried by an American court-martial with only a medical officer as his counsel. He was fined $600. He also suffered an official reprimand, an important blot on an officer's record. The reprimand was written by General Deane. The Secretary of War approved the punishments and King is still in disgrace to this extent.

After all this time, King is still afraid of the power of the air force to persecute him, an appeal is being prepared for a review and vindication, but King refuses to talk lest mention of his case will so anger the air force that he will never get fair treatment. The judge advocate general of the air force will have the last word in the matter however, and in other shocking experiences of American airmen in Russia.

The King case has been smothered all this time, originally out of the obsequiousness of certain Americans toward the Russians, and later out of a determination, for obvious reasons, to conceal the facts from the American public.

Rain Washes Out Colonial-Pittsfield Game in Third and Fireworks

Monday Night Set As New Date For Big Show

Locals Ahead 2 to 1 When the Rains Came

Their top promotion of the season rained out two nights running, don't blame Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. officials and the Colonial players if they feel the baseball gods are conspiring against them.

A heavy rainstorm that drenched the city about 9 o'clock last night caused cancellation of the baseball game with Pittsfield and the fireworks display that was to follow.

After waiting an hour for the rains to subside, the umpires called the game at 9:55 p. m.

Kingston was batting in the bottom of the third, leading 2-1, when the downpour struck. By virtue of four walks, a couple of balks and a passed ball, the Colonials managed to pick up two runs without a hit in a weird inning.

Frank Seeley had yielded two hits, one a homer over the centerfield fence by Charlie Ruddock, in three innings. Kingston was hitless in 2 2/3 frames against Jack Meyers but had received seven bases on balls.

Away Two Days

The Colonials hit the road for single engagements in Amsterdam tonight and Saturday night, then return to municipal stadium for a four-day home stand that includes Sunday and Monday games with Rome and Tuesday and Wednesday skirmishes with Gloversville.

The fireworks have been tentatively re-scheduled for Monday night. The baseball game will start at 8 p. m. a half hour earlier than usual, with the fireworks following.

Since the entire Can-Am slate, including two double-headers, was rained out last night, the Colonials remained in a tie for third place, with one victory and one defeat.

Pitching Help

The addition of Tony Piacente to the pitching staff gives Manager Sam Piacentino another badly needed starter. Piacente had one bad inning in his relief debut against Pittsfield but was effective in his last four innings.

A return to winning form by Jack Ormiston would be a welcome tonic to the harrassed Colonial hurling corps. Big Jack has been plagued by wildness, although he looked sharp in a one-inning stint against Pittsfield on July 4 afternoon.

The imminent return of Joel Kern will put the Colonials at top strength for the season. The club will have two catchers—Joe Niro and Jack Allen—and a pitching staff that includes Frank Seeley, one of the prize prospects in the league; southpaw Dick Connors, Charlie Ayers, Jack Ormiston, Vince Canepa and Tony Piacente.

The infield is set with Jack Bickett at first; Dennis Healey, second; Joel Kern, third and Nick Marino at Shortstop. Piacentino, Bill O'Brien, a defensive wizard in center, and hard hitting Lou Kramberg in right field.

Grand Circuit Heads for Saratoga

Goshen, N. Y., July 6 (AP)—The Grand Circuit ends its five-day stand at the half-mile Historic Track today and moves back under the lights Monday at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., for a two-week session.

Gander from the Saunders Mills Stable of Toledo, O., could not do better than third in his elimination heat of the $10,000 two-year-old pace yesterday but he was the best of the large field in the two final tests.

Under H. Bell's handling the son of Volomite won the first brush of the final in 2:07 and the second in the slow time of 2:13 3/5.

South Dakota, winner of his elimination heat in 2:07 4/5, finished second in both of the final tests with his owner-trainer, Harry Short, handling the reins. W. N. Reynolds' David Caudle of Winston Salem, N. C., won the other elimination in 2:06 4/5 but wound up fifth in the first of the two final miles and third in the last test.

Savitt Wins Crown

Wimbledon, July 6 (AP)—Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., won the All-England tennis championship today when he defeated Ken McGregor of Australia, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, in their final match before 15,000 spectators on the center court.

Final Tryouts For Legion Nine

Final tryouts for the American Legion junior baseball nine will be held this evening at the Athletic Field.

Coaches Tommy Maines and Charlie Neff have announced that cuts will be made after today's trials.

The New York state tournament is scheduled to start on July 27, with Kingston meeting another squad from the Third District at that time. The game will be played as part of an Eastern League doubleheader.

This year's Kingston team will again carry the name of the Old Capital Motors Legion and will play several games with area teams in their own age bracket before the start of the tournament.

Arrangements already have been completed to have the Old Caps meet Joe Benjamin's Saugerties club in a home-and-home series.

Lanesville Stops Albany Club, 3-2 In Late Uprising

The Lanesville AC scored a 3 to 2 squeaker win over the Dwyer's All Stars of Albany July 4.

Bud Smith, who went the route for the winners, notched his 36th strikeout in his last three hill appearances when he fanned nine of the upstaters.

Lanesville was outhit by 8-5 but four big errors played a prominent part in the defeat of the Albany club.

The winners, after trailing 1-0 going into the bottom half of the fifth, tied the count when Eddie Anderson, Lanesville right fielder, came home on a wild throw by Van Deusen, the All Star catcher.

Lanesville loaded the sacks in the seventh and pushed across the winning markers. With the sacks fully occupied, Lee hit a slow roller to Adams at second whose throw to the plate on the force failed to get Anderson. After two strikeouts, Karl Bush singled across Ostrander which proved to be the winning marker.

The All Stars threatened in the ninth and managed to score one run to make it 3-2. Smith halted the uprising, however, when he got Powell on a pop to third and Guy to hit back to the box.

Lanesville will meet the newly-organized Pine Hill nine July 8.

Wood Reaches Quarter Finals

Forest Hills, N. Y., July 6 (AP) — Sidney Wood, Wimbledon champion two decades ago, meets Ricardo Balbiers of Chile today in a quarter-final match of the New York State clay courts tennis championships.

In the other scheduled round of eight test, Irvin Dorfman, back from more than a year's travel about Europe, goes against Gus Ganzenmuller of Sea Cliff, N. J.

The Dorfman - Ganzenmuller winner will meet top-seeded Sidney Schwartz in one semi-final. In the other Jack Tuero of Tulane University will play the winner of the Wood-Balbiers match.

Schwartz of the University of Miami whipped Capt. Leo Hayes of West Point, 8-6, 6-2, and Tuero, former National Intercollegiate champion, defeated Charles Masterson of Hicksville, N. Y., 1-6, 6-1, 6-1, to gain their backets yesterday.

Faulkner Leads British Open

Portrush, Northern Ireland, July 6 (AP)—The British Open golf tournament shaped up today as a battle against the elements. The players who can get on the course either before or after the winds and drizzle are the ones most likely to break or match par.

Max Faulkner, of the British Ryder Cup team, held a two-stroke lead as the competition entered the home stretch—and has a good chance of holding his margin. Faulkner, in the past three British Opens, never has gone more than two over par in any one round. He's that steady.

But he still lost the title to Bobby Locke, the South African wizard by four strokes both last year and in 1949. This time, though, Max has a four-stroke margin over Locke after 36 holes, 141 to 145.

Faulkner got out yesterday before the drizzle and came home with a two-under-par 70. Locke's 145 was good for no better than a five-way tie for fifth. Locke played in the rain and complained that it caused the grass around the cups to rise, making some of his putts curl away.

Frank Stranahan and Chuck Rotar, two of the four Americans in the tourney, still were in the running, but far off the pace. Stranahan had a 150 total and Rotar, a former Canton, O., pro now in the Army in Germany, a 152.

Reinstate Wehrle As Amateur Golfer

New York, July 6 (AP)—Wilford Wehrle of Louisville, who won the Western Amateur championship in 1937, today was back in the good graces of the U. S. Golf Association.

Wehrle's entry for the 1948 U. S. Amateur was rejected because the USGA thought his name had been used too much in connection with golf merchandise manufactured by a firm in which he had a financial interest.

But the company was recognized with Wehrle as president and the USGA yesterday decided to relent. Wehrle will try for this year's amateur title.

Pete Reynolds Stars on Mound

The Little League Giants, who apparently are more serious in pennant designs than their National League elders, tripped the Boston Red Sox, 13 to 5, Thursday evening at St. Mary's Field.

The win put the Giants only a half game behind the pace-setting Yankees.

The Yankees, unbeaten in two games, take on the Dodgers, who have won once in three starts, in today's game at 6 p. m.

Joe Reynolds checked the Red Sox with four scattered singles and struck out eight to notch yesterday's victory. He walked four. Bill Cragan was touched for 11 hits and fanned five.

Batting stars were Pete Blanschan, the standout younger catcher, and John Schoonmaker, each with three singles in four trips. There were no extra base hits. Pete Espositio went "2 for 2."

Four was the magic combination, with the Giants having three four-run innings and the Red Sox making their lone threat in with four in the fourth.

The game was reeled off in one hour and 15 minutes, the fastest time to date. Despite inclement weather conditions, another large crowd was on hand. Reynolds struck out the side in the third inning. Bob Tierney worked the game alone and had to make several close calls.

Penn Crew Seeks Third Henley Win

Henley-on-Thames, England, July 6 (AP) — The University of Pennsylvania's lightweight crew goes after its third straight victory in the Royal Henley Regatta today when it meets King's College of London.

The Quakers, who yesterday stroked to a length and a quarter victory over the Peterhouse College shell of Cambridge University, are not expected to have any difficulty whipping Kings.

Penn was clocked in 7:15 for the mile and 550-yard course, while King's was timed in 7:22 in defeating University College and Hospital by one-half length.

U. S. Track Victory

Basle, Switzerland, July 6 (AP)—The touring United States track and field team had another victory on the ledger today—its fourth in as many starts against European teams. The Americans won all but one event in a test against Swiss, German and French athletes yesterday, with Jim Golliday of Northwestern winning both the 100 and 200 meters. The Americans were shut out only in the 1,500 meter run.

A return game with the strong southern Ulster club is scheduled on July 15 in Ashokan. The Indians play in Woodstock Sunday.

Williams, the Wallkill flinger, kept nine hits well scattered and struck out 11. George Jackson gave up only six to the winners but five errors contributed to his downfall.

Williams Lake Plans Swim Class

The annual summer swimming contest for the boys and girls of this area will begin at Williams Lake, in the town of Rosendale, on Monday, July 9.

The purpose of the contest is to encourage the local children to learn to swim and to learn to swim better. Free swimming instruction is given by Fred Dippel, athletic director at the lake, to those who cannot swim. Those who can swim already are given pointers to help them improve their form and speed. Points are based more on improvement than on ability. The various children are divided into groups according to their ability and are given points for such things as attendance, swimming certain distances, improving their speed, and learning certain dives. At the end of the season medals and prizes are awarded to those who gained the most number of points.

Last year's contest was a very successful one with over 40 children participating. Of a total of 16 non-swimmers, all learned to swim and all but two learned well enough to swim 25 yards in deep water, Dippel's standard for promotion out of the beginners' class. The program is held each day Monday through Friday from 11 in the morning until noon.

Football, Best Draw, Incurred $1,712 Deficit

Short Home Schedule Given As Reason

Kingston High School Athletic Association had to dig deep into its financial reserve last year due largely to a bad season in football. There were two rainy football dates and the lucrative Thanksgiving Day battle with Newburgh was played in the Hilly City last fall.

As a result the football season closed with a $1,712.46 shortage. Revenue from football, usually an item on the black side of the ledger, was only $4,276.60 with payments amounting to 5,452.56 and band expenses to games of $536.50.

The Association started out on July 1, 1950 with a balance of $4,670.20. Receipts for the year were $13,764.95. Total cash available was $18,435.15 Payments for the year totaled $16,636.06, leaving a balance on July 1, 1951, of only $1,799.09.

The total operational deficit for the fiscal year was $2,871.11.

Woodard Report

R. H. Woodard, treasurer of the fund, made his annual report to the Board of Education Monday.

Cross country reported a total receipt of $1, due to lost equipment and the cost was $217.95 for net loss of $216.95. Tennis had a $3 refund and cost $107.85, for a net expense of $104.85.

Basketball showed a gain of $982.53. Receipts were $4,730.35 and payments were $3,957.98. The concession net profit was $210.16.

Track receipts were $26.35 and payments amounted to $1139.55 for a deficit of $1133.20.

The great American game of baseball took in a total gate of $3.45 and there was an insurance payment of $8, bringing the total income to $11.45. Payments amounted to $993.96 for a deficit of $982.51.

It cost $161.60 to operate the golf program and bowling and soft ball cost $33.89.

1150 Membership

There were 1150 memberships sold for $1 a membership and services rendered brought in $12 for a net gain on membership dues of $1,138.

Rain Washes Out Colonial-Pittsfield Game in Third and Fireworks

Monday Night Set As New Date For Big Show

Locals Ahead 2 to 1 When the Rains Came

Their top promotion of the season rained out two nights running, don't blame Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. officials and the Colonial players if they feel the baseball gods are conspiring against them.

A heavy rainstorm that drenched the city about 9 o'clock last night caused cancellation of the baseball game with Pittsfield and the fireworks display that was to follow.

After waiting an hour for the rains to subside, the umpires called the game at 9:55 p. m.

Kingston was batting in the bottom of the third, leading 2-1, when the downpour struck. By virtue of four walks, a couple of balks and a passed ball, the Colonials managed to pick up two runs without a hit in a weird inning.

Frank Seeley had yielded two hits, one a homer over the centerfield fence by Charlie Ruddock, in three innings. Kingston was hitless in 2 2/3 frames against Jack Meyers but had received seven bases on balls.

Away Two Days

The Colonials hit the road for single engagements in Amsterdam tonight and Saturday night, then return to municipal stadium for a four-day home stand that includes Sunday and Monday games with Rome and Tuesday and Wednesday skirmishes with Gloversville.

The fireworks have been tentatively re-scheduled for Monday night. The baseball game will start at 8 p. m. a half hour earlier than usual, with the fireworks following.

Since the entire Can-Am slate, including two double-headers, was rained out last night, the Colonials remained in a tie for third place, with one victory and one defeat.

Pitching Help

The addition of Tony Piacente to the pitching staff gives Manager Sam Piacentino another badly needed starter. Piacente had one bad inning in his relief debut against Pittsfield but was effective in his last four innings.

A return to winning form by Jack Ormiston would be a welcome tonic to the harrassed Colonial hurling corps. Big Jack has been plagued by wildness, although he looked sharp in a one-inning stint against Pittsfield on July 4 afternoon.

The imminent return of Joel Kern will put the Colonials at top strength for the season. The club will have two catchers—Joe Niro and Jack Allen—and a pitching staff that includes Frank Seeley, one of the prize prospects in the league; southpaw Dick Connors, Charlie Ayers, Jack Ormiston, Vince Canepa and Tony Piacente.

The infield is set with Jack Bickett at first; Dennis Healey, second; Joel Kern, third and Nick Marino at Shortstop. Piacentino, Bill O'Brien, a defensive wizard in center, and hard hitting Lou Kramberg in right field.

Grand Circuit Heads for Saratoga

Goshen, N. Y., July 6 (AP)—The Grand Circuit ends its five-day stand at the half-mile Historic Track today and moves back under the lights Monday at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., for a two-week session.

Gander from the Saunders Mills Stable of Toledo, O., could not do better than third in his elimination heat of the $10,000 two-year-old pace yesterday but he was the best of the large field in the two final tests.

Under H. Bell's handling the son of Volomite won the first brush of the final in 2:07 and the second in the slow time of 2:13 3/5.

South Dakota, winner of his elimination heat in 2:07 4/5, finished second in both of the final tests with his owner-trainer, Harry Short, handling the reins. W. N. Reynolds' David Caudle of Winston Salem, N. C., won the other elimination in 2:06 4/5 but wound up fifth in the first of the two final miles and third in the last test.

Savitt Wins Crown

Wimbledon, July 6 (AP)—Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., won the All-England tennis championship today when he defeated Ken McGregor of Australia, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, in their final match before 15,000 spectators on the center court.

Final Tryouts For Legion Nine

Final tryouts for the American Legion junior baseball nine will be held this evening at the Athletic Field.

Coaches Tommy Maines and Charlie Neff have announced that cuts will be made after today's trials.

The New York state tournament is scheduled to start on July 27, with Kingston meeting another squad from the Third District at that time. The game will be played as part of an Eastern League doubleheader.

This year's Kingston team will again carry the name of the Old Capital Motors Legion and will play several games with area teams in their own age bracket before the start of the tournament.

Arrangements already have been completed to have the Old Caps meet Joe Benjamin's Saugerties club in a home-and-home series.

Lanesville Stops Albany Club, 3-2 In Late Uprising

The Lanesville AC scored a 3 to 2 squeaker win over the Dwyer's All Stars of Albany July 4.

Bud Smith, who went the route for the winners, notched his 36th strikeout in his last three hill appearances when he fanned nine of the upstaters.

Lanesville was outhit by 8-5 but four big errors played a prominent part in the defeat of the Albany club.

The winners, after trailing 1-0 going into the bottom half of the fifth, tied the count when Eddie Anderson, Lanesville right fielder, came home on a wild throw by Van Deusen, the All Star catcher.

Lanesville loaded the sacks in the seventh and pushed across the winning markers. With the sacks fully occupied, Lee hit a slow roller to Adams at second whose throw to the plate on the force failed to get Anderson. After two strikeouts, Karl Bush singled across Ostrander which proved to be the winning marker.

The All Stars threatened in the ninth and managed to score one run to make it 3-2. Smith halted the uprising, however, when he got Powell on a pop to third and Guy to hit back to the box.

Lanesville will meet the newly-organized Pine Hill nine July 8.

Faulkner Leads British Open

Portrush, Northern Ireland, July 6 (AP)—The British Open golf tournament shaped up today as a battle against the elements. The players who can get on the course either before or after the winds and drizzle are the ones most likely to break or match par.

Max Faulkner, of the British Ryder Cup team, held a two-stroke lead as the competition entered the home stretch—and has a good chance of holding his margin. Faulkner, in the past three British Opens, never has gone more than two over par in any one round. He's that steady.

But he still lost the title to Bobby Locke, the South African wizard by four strokes both last year and in 1949. This time, though, Max has a four-stroke margin over Locke after 36 holes, 141 to 145.

Faulkner got out yesterday before the drizzle and came home with a two-under-par 70. Locke's 145 was good for no better than a five-way tie for fifth. Locke played in the rain and complained that it caused the grass around the cups to rise, making some of his putts curl away.

Frank Stranahan and Chuck Rotar, two of the four Americans in the tourney, still were in the running, but far off the pace. Stranahan had a 150 total and Rotar, a former Canton, O., pro now in the Army in Germany, a 152.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST By Hal Sharp

Pete Reynolds Stars on Mound

The Little League Giants, who apparently are more serious in pennant designs than their National League elders, tripped the Boston Red Sox, 13 to 5, Thursday evening at St. Mary's Field.

The win put the Giants only a half game behind the pace-setting Yankees.

The Yankees, unbeaten in two games, take on the Dodgers, who have won once in three starts, in today's game at 6 p. m.

Joe Reynolds checked the Red Sox with four scattered singles and struck out eight to notch yesterday's victory. He walked four. Bill Cragan was touched for 11 hits and fanned five.

Batting stars were Pete Blanschan, the standout younger catcher, and John Schoonmaker, each with three singles in four trips. There were no extra base hits. Pete Espositio went "2 for 2."

Four was the magic combination, with the Giants having three four-run innings and the Red Sox making their lone threat in with four in the fourth.

The game was reeled off in one hour and 15 minutes, the fastest time to date. Despite inclement weather conditions, another large crowd was on hand. Reynolds struck out the side in the third inning. Bob Tierney worked the game alone and had to make several close calls.

Penn Crew Seeks Third Henley Win

Henley-on-Thames, England, July 6 (AP) — The University of Pennsylvania's lightweight crew goes after its third straight victory in the Royal Henley Regatta today when it meets King's College of London.

The Quakers, who yesterday stroked to a length and a quarter victory over the Peterhouse College shell of Cambridge University, are not expected to have any difficulty whipping Kings.

Penn was clocked in 7:15 for the mile and 550-yard course, while King's was timed in 7:22 in defeating University College and Hospital by one-half length.

U. S. Track Victory

Basle, Switzerland, July 6 (AP)—The touring United States track and field team had another victory on the ledger today—its fourth in as many starts against European teams. The Americans won all but one event in a test against Swiss, German and French athletes yesterday, with Jim Golliday of Northwestern winning both the 100 and 200 meters. The Americans were shut out only in the 1,500 meter run.

Stock Cars Resume

Rained out for two successive weeks, the stock car pilots will try it again tomorrow night on the Rhinebeck Speedway track. Stan Disbrow and Jocko Maggiacomo, two Dutchess county favorites, are currently staging a hot battle for the point leadership. Ray Brown, last year's circuit champion, will also be in the field.

Reinstate Wehrle As Amateur Golfer

New York, July 6 (AP)—Wilford Wehrle of Louisville, who won the Western Amateur championship in 1937, today was back in the good graces of the U. S. Golf Association.

Wehrle's entry for the 1948 U. S. Amateur was rejected because the USGA thought his name had been used too much in connection with golf merchandise manufactured by a firm in which he had a financial interest.

But the company was recognized with Wehrle as president and the USGA yesterday decided to relent. Wehrle will try for this year's amateur title.

Golf Meeting Set Tonight

A meeting to set up the first Ulster County Amateur golf champoinship tournament will be held at the Stuyvesant Hotel this evening at 7:30. Invitations have been extended to all club golfers in Ulster county with handicaps of 10 or less. The tournament will be a 54-hole medal affair. Details will be worked out at tonight's meeting.

Indians Lose To Wallkill Nine

Ashokan Indians ran into some stout pitching and committed five errors in the field to suffer a 9-5 drubbing on July 4 in Wallkill.

A return game with the strong southern Ulster club is scheduled on July 15 in Ashokan. The Indians play in Woodstock Sunday.

Williams, the Wallkill flinger, kept nine hits well scattered and struck out 11. George Jackson gave up only six to the winners but five errors contributed to his downfall.

Davis stroked three singles for the Indians, while Eignor homered for Wallkill.

Williams Lake Plans Swim Class

The annual summer swimming contest for the boys and girls of this area will begin at Williams Lake, in the town of Rosendale, on Monday, July 9.

The purpose of the contest is to encourage the local children to learn to swim and to learn to swim better. Free swimming instruction is given by Fred Dippel, athletic director at the lake, to those who cannot swim. Those who can swim already are given pointers to help them improve their form and speed. Points are based more on improvement than on ability. The various children are divided into groups according to their ability and are given points for such things as attendance, swimming certain distances, improving their speed, and learning certain dives. At the end of the season medals and prizes are awarded to those who gained the most number of points.

Last year's contest was a very successful one with over 40 children participating. Of a total of 16 non-swimmers, all learned to swim and all but two learned well enough to swim 25 yards in deep water, Dippel's standard for promotion out of the beginners' class. The program is held each day Monday through Friday from 11 in the morning until noon.

Football, Best Draw, Incurred $1,712 Deficit

Short Home Schedule Given As Reason

Kingston High School Athletic Association had to dig deep into its financial reserve last year due largely to a bad season in football. There were two rainy football dates and the lucrative Thanksgiving Day battle with Newburgh was played in the Hilly City last fall.

As a result the football season closed with a $1,712.46 shortage. Revenue from football, usually an item on the black side of the ledger, was only $4,276.60 with payments amounting to 5,452.36 and band expenses to games of $536.50.

The Association started out on July 1, 1950 with a balance of $4,670.20. Receipts for the year were $13,764.95. Total cash available was $18,435.15 Payments for the year totaled $16,636.06, leaving a balance on July 1, 1951, of only $1,799.09.

The total operational deficit for the fiscal year was $2,871.11.

Woodard Report

R. H. Woodard, treasurer of the fund, made his annual report to the Board of Education Monday.

Cross country reported a total receipt of $1, due to lost equipment and the cost was $217.95 for net loss of $216.95. Tennis had a $3 refund and cost $107.85, for a net expense of $104.85.

Basketball showed a gain of $982.53. Receipts were $4,730.35 and payments were $3,957.98. The concession net profit was $210.16.

Track receipts were $26.35 and payments amounted to $1159.55 for a deficit of $1133.20.

The great American game of baseball took in a total gate of $3.45 and there was an insurance payment of $8, bringing the total income to $11.45. Payments amounted to $993.96 for a deficit of $982.51.

It cost $161.60 to operate the golf program and bowling and soft ball cost $33.89.

1150 Membership

There were 1150 membership sold for $1 a membership and services rendered brought in $12 for a net gain on membership dues of $1,138.

There were 354 tickets sold to the A.A. banquet and payments amounted to $907.54, including the $300 paid to Red Barber, the speaker. Net cost of the banquet was $376.54.

A.A. party receipts were $53.90 and payments $74.48 for a net cost of $20.58.

Student buses brought in a total of $617.65 and payments were $596.68 for a gain of $20.97.

There were miscellaneous receipts amounting to $308 reported by Mr. Woodard and miscellaneous payments amounting to $600.87, for a net expenditure of $292.87.

Cheer leaders entertainment brought in $166.50 and the payments totaled $143.76 for a balance of $22.74 on hand.

In the promotion of high school athletics financial gain is not the important item. The program is designed to promote sportsmanship and to be a part of the physical education program of the school, it was pointed out by a member of the athletic committee of the board, and financial gain is but secondary.

Maybe it's time to take this man Gil Hodges seriously.

With 27 home runs in Brooklyn's first 73 games, the Dodgers first baseman is running five games ahead of Babe Ruth's all-time record pace of 1927.

Let's take a quick look at the Hodges-Ruth figures, month by month:

	Hodges	Ruth
April	6	4
May	9	12
June	9	9
July 1-5	3	1
	27	26

The Babe didn't hit No. 27 until July 8 in the Yanks' 78 game. Brooklyn won't play its 78th until after the All-Star game break.

No wonder the Brooks are 7½ games in front of the second place New York Giants and pulling away fast. Their recovery from a mid-summer slump coincided with Hodges' latest burst of homers.

Gil ripped into Larry Jansen for his 27th last night at Ebbets Field, a few seconds after Andy Pafko also rifled a Jansen pitch into the stands.

Necombe Wins 12th

Although the Giants wobbled Big Don Newcombe in a four-run eighth inning, the Brooks clawed back with three more and went on to win, 8-4. It was Newcombe's 12th victory, a seven-hitter in which he struck out eight to boost his major league leading total to 83.

If Hodges and the Dodgers are running away from the National field, the American four-way race can provide any missing thrills.

New York climbed back into first place, a half game ahead of Chicago, by bopping Washington, 9-2, in a night game after Chicago had been shut out for the first time, 8-0, by Detroit's Freddie Hutchinson.

Boston closed in on the leaders by manhandling Philadelphia, 8-3, with Ted Williams and Bobby Doerr hitting homers to back up Walt Masterson's brilliant relief pitching. The Red Sox are only two games back and Cleveland, rained out of its night game at St. Louis, is but 4½ away.

Kuzava Wins

Bob Kuzava tamed his old Washington mates with four hits in his first complete game for the Yankees. Gil Coan's two-run homer in the fifth, his third of the series, robbed Kuzava of a shutout. Gerry Coleman drove home four Yankee runs with a single and double.

The game sprouted a "rhubarb" in the seventh on Umpire Jim Duffy's ruling on a foul fly. Yankee catcher Charlie Silvera muffed the foul near the Washington dugout. The ball appeared to strike the ground after tipping the mitt. Bobby Brown, Yankee third baseman, scooped it up on one hop. Duffy, however, ruled it a legal putout, claiming Brown got the ball on the fly. As the score was 3-2 at the time, Washington stirred up quite a fuss and Duffy chased Coach George Myatt.

Hutchinson gave only five hits in blanking the White Sox for the first time. Only one Chicago player got as far as third.

Boston eased a bit closer on the eve of its important three-game series with the Yanks by thumping the A's. Masterson pitched two-hit ball after replacing Chuck Stobbs in the fifth.

Cards Keep Coming

St. Louis chewed up Chicago, 10-2, to breeze within a half game of the Giants. The Cards trail Brooklyn by eight. Cliff Chambers, back on the beam after a wobbly six weeks, knocked off his third win in a row with a five-hitter.

Boston edged the Phillies, 7-6, in 11 innings but lost two starting pitchers—Vern Bickford and Johnny Sain—with injuries. Bickford pulled up with a sore shoulder after four innings and Sain's pitching hand was injured by deflecting Granny Hamner's grounder in the eighth. Both will be out a week. Sid Gordon's single with the bases full and none out in the 11th cost reliefer Jim Konstanty his sixth loss.

With Ralph Kiner sitting out a three-day suspension, Pittsburgh succumbed to Howie Fox's pitching in a 4-0 Cincinnati win.

WHIZ KID — Hamilton Richardson turned in one of the biggest upsets in the history of the All-England Tennis Championships at Wimbledon, eliminating the defending champion, Budge Patty, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 10-8, 6-4. He is the 17-year-old United States junior champion out of Baton Rouge, La. (NEA)

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Barbara Kroll To Make Debut Sunday as Violist

Woodstock, July 6—When Barbara Kroll, daughter of William Kroll, celebrated violinist, joins the quartet in the first of the summer series of Maverick Sunday concerts, July 8, it will be in the nature of a debut. Although Miss Kroll made her first concert appearance here last summer at both the Maverick and in the Serenade concerts, as a member of the young professional group, this Sunday she will be presented for the first time as violist with the quartet—William Kroll, violin; Inez Carroll, piano; and Cynthia Eddy, cello.

A comely, auburn-haired girl, with mischievous brown eyes, Miss Kroll radiates the buoyancy of a college senior—which she will be next winter at Sara Lawrence College—rather than the restrained solemnity of the concert stage. Performing on her chosen instrument she appears to be having the most wonderful time in the world.

Loves to Play

"I do have a wonderful time when I'm playing, and I love every minute of it," she said while talking the other afternoon about her plans for the summer. Meanwhile, "Fiddle," the Kroll's appropriately named black cocker spaniel frolicked on the terrace.

This year she will begin her ninth year at the Mannes School in New York, where her father teaches, and where she has received her entire musical education. Since she began her studies she has had wide experience in both chamber and orchestral groups at the school, participating in many of their productions, among them a full cycle of Mozart operas. Last May the school presented two opera premieres at Hunter College.

As a tot of four she began her first studies on the violin, which she played for a number of years. When she was 12, the school orchestra needed a violist, and simply to oblige she took up the instrument. Once converted she decided she would rather play it than any other. Now with violists in great demand, she has in prospect an active summer season as violist playing with the Maverick concert group.

When asked about her father's views concerning her choice of the viola, she replied laughing: "Well, it's very convenient for him!"

Plans Music Career

Although she has attained the status of a professional musician, her efforts for the next year will be devoted largely to the completion of her college studies. For the future she plans to make her career in both orchestral and chamber music.

A daughter of so eminent a musician might ordinarily find it difficult to measure up to the standards of perfection demanded by a top-ranking artist. Miss Kroll, however, has had the good fortune to grow up listening to her father's famous quartet in rehearsal and in performance, which gave her the impetus to make string music her chosen work. Once she had made her concert debut in a chamber music quartet at the age of 13, she was off on her own and thereby made her decision to become a concert artist.

When Miss Kroll steps onto the Maverick stage next Sunday at 3:30 p. m., she will in one respect be the youngest musician to carry on a tradition—a tradition which began 36 years ago with the presentation of the first Maverick concert. That the children of Woodstock's most revered artists tread so expertly in their parents' footsteps, is indeed proof of the musical wealth and progress of the community.

Parnassus Show

Woodstock, July 6—A group of women painters and sculptors of Woodstock have combined to present a round-up of a wide diversity of concepts in the show current at Parnassus Square. A decided freshness of quality in many of the exhibits added to the spacious semi-outdoor atmosphere of Miss Frances Dederick's barn gallery make for pleasant viewing and uncrowded effect. Among the items noted with interest were Wilna Hervey's lively Ceramic Class, Rosalie Berkowitz' pastel nude, and Margaret Lowengrund's Leaves: A rich composition in flat, mural-like forms and studied simplicity, Frieda Schutze's Woman With Shawl draws attention, as does Mallette Davis's strong water color in deep stormy hues. The show will remain at the gallery through July 14.

Defense Signals

Woodstock, July 6—Announcement has been made by the La-Monte Simpkins, director of Civilian Defense in this village, that in the event of an emergency, the red signal will be received by him and the town fire siren will be sounded with a constant wave up and down. The all clear will be a steady blast from the siren. The Auxiliary Police in the village will be prepared to be on duty to halt all traffic.

Agnes Hart Show To Open Friday

Woodstock, July 6—An exhibition of paintings by Agnes Hart, New York and Woodstock painter, will open today with a reception at the Town House, from 3 to 5 p. m.

The paintings have been selected from work done by the artist during the past five years, and will show a transition within the framework of expressionism from a somewhat representational approach through a personal use of cubism to a more abstract handling in the most recent canvasses.

Miss Hart, who had a one-man show at the Roko Gallery in New York in 1948, and whose painting Cornucopia was among those displayed in the recent national competitive exhibition, American Painting Today 1950, at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, has also been represented in the Chicago International Water Color Show, the Pennsylvania Academy the National Academy, the Philadelphia Print Club, the Toledo Museum, the Richmond, Va., Museum, the New Haven Paint and Clay Club, the Contemporary Arts, Associated American Artists and Roko Galleries in New York.

A resident of Woodstock since 1947, she came to this village earlier as a student of Lucile Blanch. She is a member and a regular exhibitor of the Woodstock Artists Association. For two consecutive years, 1947 and 1948, she was awarded a fellowship at Yaddo in Saratoga Springs.

Always interested in the art of children, Miss Hart taught creative painting in the Birchwathen School, in New York, and in settlement houses in New York and Brooklyn.

She spent two winters in Sarasota, Fla., studying at the Ringling School of Art and drawing any painting at the winter quarters of the Ringling Brothers Circus. During the winter of 1946 she lived in a Seminole Indian village in the Florida Everglades, drawing, painting and photographing Indian family life.

The paintings in the Town House exhibition are in oil, wax emulsion, casein, gouache, and mixed medium. They will remain on view through July 19.

Professionals have heard and said that the important part of the game is the short approach.

The player can make up for a couple of bad ones, put himself in good position for sinking putts if he can get the ball close to the pin with his short irons.

Herman Barron

The most important single piece of advice I can give week-enders is to see how smoothly they can hit the ball. The shot must be played with the forearms and wrists—no body movement—yet in a relaxed style that will permit the important follow through.

Judge your distance.

Select the right club.

Selecting the club for a short shot, I judge three things. I check the contour of the green to determine how far and in which direction I wish the ball to roll.

I check the speed of the green. If it is slow I won't be able to play as much roll as on a faster surface.

Of great importance is the distance the pin is set back on the green. If it's close to the edge, my ball, landing on the edge of the green, will have only a short distance to roll, indicating the proper club to be one of more loft.

I take my stance with feet close together, toes slightly open, and the face of the club slightly closed on the ball. The grip should be shortened considerably from the usual manner, with the hands well down on the grip.

HERE'S THE PITCH — Al Ciuci's feet are close together, toes slightly open. There is no body movement. He is Fresh Meadow's famous teaching professional. (NEA)

The ball appeared to strike the ground after tipping the mitt. Bobby Brown, Yankee third baseman, scooped it up on one hop. Duffy, however, ruled it a legal putout, claiming Brown got the ball on the fly. As the score was 3-2 at the time, Washington stirred up quite a fuss and Duffy chased Coach George Myatt.

Hutchinson gave only five hits in blanking the White Sox for the first time. Only one Chicago player got as far as third.

Boston eased a bit closer on the eve of its important three-game series with the Yanks by thumping the A's. Masterson pitched two-hit ball after replacing Chuck Stobbs in the fifth.

Cards Keep Coming

St. Louis chewed up Chicago, 10-2, to breeze within a half game of the Giants. The Cards trail Brooklyn by eight. Cliff Chambers, back on the beam after a wobbly six weeks, knocked off his third win in a row with a five-hitter.

Boston edged the Phillies, 7-6, in 11 innings but lost two starting pitchers—Vern Bickford and Johnny Sain—with injuries. Bickford pulled up with a sore shoulder after four innings and Sain's pitching hand was injured by deflecting Granny Hamner's grounder in the eighth. Both will be out a week. Sid Gordon's single with the bases full and none out in the 11th cost reliefer Jim Konstanty his sixth loss.

With Ralph Kiner sitting out a three-day suspension, Pittsburgh succumbed to Howie Fox's pitching in a 4-0 Cincinnati win.

WHIZ KID — Hamilton Richardson turned in one of the biggest upsets in the history of the All-England Tennis Championships at Wimbledon, eliminating the defending champion, Budge Patty, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 10-8, 6-4. He is the 17-year-old United States junior champion out of Baton Rouge, La. (NEA)

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Barbara Kroll To Make Debut Sunday as Violist

Woodstock, July 6—When Barbara Kroll, daughter of William Kroll, celebrated violinist, joins the quartet in the first of the summer series of Maverick Sunday concerts, July 8, it will be in the nature of a debut. Although Miss Kroll made her first concert appearance here last summer at both the Maverick and in the Serenade concerts, as a member of the young professional group, this Sunday she will be presented for the first time as violist with the quartet—William Kroll, violin; Inez Carroll, piano; and Cynthia Eddy, cello.

A comely, auburn-haired girl, with mischievous brown eyes, Miss Kroll radiates the buoyancy of a college senior—which she will be next winter at Sara Lawrence College—rather than the restrained solemnity of the concert stage. Performing on her chosen instrument she appears to be having the most wonderful time in the world.

Loves to Play

"I do have a wonderful time when I'm playing, and I love every minute of it," she said while talking the other afternoon about her plans for the summer. Meanwhile, "Fiddle," the Kroll's appropriately named black cocker spaniel frolicked on the terrace.

This year she will begin her ninth year at the Mannes School in New York, where her father teaches, and where she has received her entire musical education. Since she began her studies she has had wide experience in both chamber and orchestral groups at the school, participating in many of their productions, among them a full cycle of Mozart operas. Last May the school presented two opera premieres at Hunter College.

As a tot of four she began her first studies on the violin, which she played for a number of years. When she was 12, the school orchestra needed a violist, and simply to oblige she took up the instrument. Once converted she decided she would rather play it than any other. Now with violists in great demand, she has in prospect an active summer season as violist playing with the Maverick concert group.

When asked about her father's views concerning her choice of the viola, she replied laughing: "Well, it's very convenient for him!"

Plans Music Career

Although she has attained the status of a professional musician, her efforts for the next year will be devoted largely to the completion of her college studies. For the future she plans to make her career in both orchestral and chamber music.

A daughter of so eminent a musician might ordinarily find it difficult to measure up to the standards of perfection demanded by a top-ranking artist. Miss Kroll, however, has had the good fortune to grow up listening to her father's famous quartet in rehearsal and in performance, which gave her the impetus to make string music her chosen work. Once she had made her concert debut in a chamber music quartet at the age of 13, she was off on her own and thereby made her decision to become a concert artist.

When Miss Kroll steps onto the Maverick stage next Sunday at 3:30 p. m., she will in one respect be the youngest musician to carry on a tradition—a tradition which began 36 years ago with the presentation of the first Maverick concert. That the children of Woodstock's most revered artists tread so expertly in their parents' footsteps, is indeed proof of the musical wealth and progress of the community.

Woodstock, July 6—The Crafts Co-operative Shop now located next to the post office has announced new shop hours which began July 2 to extend through Labor Day. The shop will be open 9:30 a. m. to 12 noon, and from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m., daily, except Sunday.

Opening Party

Woodstock, July 6—The Woodstock Artists Association will open its Ten Choose Two show (1st group) Saturday at the Art Gallery, with an opening party at 4:30. The ten jurors elected at the first general membership meeting on June 15, will exhibit and have invited two artists each to participate. The exhibition will be on view to July 18.

Parnassus Show

Woodstock, July 6—A group of women painters and sculptors of Woodstock have combined to present a round-up of a wide diversity of concepts in the show current at Parnassus Square. A decided freshness of quality in many of the exhibits added to the spacious semi-outdoor atmosphere of Miss Frances Dederick's barn gallery make for pleasant viewing and uncrowded effect. Among the items noted with interest were Wilna Hervey's lively Ceramic Class, Rosalie Berkowitz' pastel nude, and Margaret Lowengrund's Leaves. A rich composition in flat, mural-like forms and studied simplicity, Frieda Schutze's Woman With Shawl draws attention, as does Mallette Davis's strong water color in deep stormy hues. The show will remain at the gallery through July 14.

Defense Signals

Woodstock, July 6—Announcement has been made by the LaMonte Simpkins, director of Civilian Defense in this village, that in the event of an emergency, the red signal will be received by him and the town fire siren will be sounded with a constant wave up and down. The all clear will be a steady blast from the siren. The Auxiliary Police in the village will be prepared to be on duty to halt all traffic.

Agnes Hart Show To Open Friday

Woodstock, July 6—An exhibition of paintings by Agnes Hart, New York and Woodstock painter, will open today with a reception at the Town House, from 3 to 5 p. m.

The paintings have been selected from work done by the artist during the past five years, and will show a transition within the framework of expressionism from a somewhat representational approach through a personal use of cubism to a more abstract handling in the most recent canvasses.

Miss Hart, who had a one-man show at the Roko Gallery in New York in 1948, and whose painting Cornucopia was among those displayed in the recent national competitive exhibition, American Painting Today 1950, at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, has also been represented in the Chicago International Water Color Show, the Pennsylvania Academy the National Academy, the Philadelphia Print Club, the Toledo Museum, the Richmond, Va., Museum, the New Haven Paint and Clay Club, the Contemporary Arts, Associated American Artists and Roko Galleries in New York.

A resident of Woodstock since 1947, she came to this village earlier as a student of Lucile Blanch. She is a member and a regular exhibitor of the Woodstock Artists Association. For two consecutive years, 1947 and 1948, she was awarded a fellowship at Yaddo in Saratoga Springs.

Always interested in the art of children, Miss Hart taught creative painting in the Birchwathen School, in New York, and in settlement houses in New York and Brooklyn.

She spent two winters in Sarasota, Fla., studying at the Ringling School of Art and drawing any painting at the winter quarters of the Ringling Brothers Circus. During the winter of 1946 she lived in a Seminole Indian village in the Florida Everglades, drawing, painting and photographing Indian family life.

The paintings in the Town House exhibition are in oil, was emulsion, casein, gouache, and mixed medium. They will remain on view through July 19.

Woodstock, July 6—The piano pupils of Lois B. Jeffery presented a recital Sunday afternoon at the Town Hall before an enthusiastic audience of relatives and friends. Guest soloist for the afternoon was Miss Mildred Newkirk, who sang two numbers, Little Brown Bird by Haydn Wood and Victor Herbert's Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life.

New Items Added

Woodstock, July 6—A number of new items have recently been added to the Crafts Co-operative shop in the village. Among them are the unique wrought-iron candle holders of delicate and graceful design by Neil E. Potter, of Samsonville. Also featured are the new etched oblong brass trays by Eleanor McCaffery and a startling new line of enamel on copper ware ash trays with more freedom of design than those previously shown. New effects in wall scenes have been achieved by Ned Thatcher, geometric in shape. Plastics have been introduced by Alice Donaldson with her modern trays, which are distinctive for their unusual combination of materials. David Donaldson has contributed a variety of modern ceramics, relish dishes, ash trays, cigarette boxes in assorted colors, with the use of purple and chartreuse particularly effective.

Former Western and All-American Open Champion

Professionals have heard and said that the important part of the game is the short approach.

The player can make up for a couple of bad ones, put himself in good position for sinking putts if he can get the ball close to the pin with his short irons.

Herman Barron

The most important single piece of advice I can give week-enders is to see how smoothly they can hit the ball. The shot must be played with the forearms and wrists—no body movement—yet in a relaxed style that will permit the important follow through.

Judge your distance.

Select the right club.

Selecting the club for a short shot, I judge three things. I check the contour of the green to determine how far and in which direction I wish the ball to roll.

I check the speed of the green. If it is slow I won't be able to play as much roll as on a faster surface.

Of great importance is the distance the pin is set back on the green. If it's close to the edge, my ball, landing on the edge of the green, will have only a short distance to roll, indicating the proper club to be one of more loft.

I take my stance with feet close together, toes slightly open, and the face of the club slightly closed on the ball. The grip should be shortened considerably from the usual manner, with the hands well down on the grip.

HERE'S THE PITCH — Al Ciuci's feet are close together, toes slightly open. There is no body movement. He is Fresh Meadow's famous teaching professional. (NEA)

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY E. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

If a Korean armistice is worked out, as seemed likely to us in this space last week, the Ruminator has a hunch that you will witness even greater confusion in the weeks ahead than we have been suffering in past weeks.

Pleasant outlook, isn't it?

But stop a moment to ruminate and see if you do not agree that all thought of cooperation will go by the boards and that every group and political organization will fight for its own interests.

While the Korean war was not a full-fledged war in the sense of a world conflict nevertheless there has been some effort at cooperation in the war and defense program.

From here on — at least for some weeks or months—there will be mostly wrangling.

Take the price-control legislation, as an example. It has been extended for a month, with certain limitations imposed on rollbacks and new items to come under control.

If the deflationary trend, which commenced five months ago, picks up momentum on the downside because of a Korean truce, you may very well find that the controversy over controls will increase. It is possible if prices generally fall away further, that the control bill would be put on the shelf. So far, in the deflation, prices of foods have not come down. The deflation has been marked in many commodities and raw materials, and in some wholesale prices. Also, of course, in the futures' markets. Prices of countless articles in stores are somewhat lower, as they have been influenced by the cut-price sales. But the bread basket still costs a pile of money to fill!

It looks as if there might be a continuation of the special sales throughout the summer, as inventories are still high. A ceasefire in Korea will doubtless accentuate these sales as store managers will bear a general post-war deflation.

This seems to be what we may look for over coming weeks, so far as the price-control situation is concerned. But, if food prices do not give 'way, there will be plenty of arguments for continued controls.

The word "readjustment" will be worked to death, probably, because there will be many readjustments among industries, if and when the Far Eastern war ends.

Every effort will be made by Washington to continue the defense program at top speed, but there is bound to be a slowing-down if the fighting stops.

There are many thinking people who believe our armament program is too large for our economy to carry and voices will be raised to curtail expenditures, you may be sure.

Of course, all these things are what Russia would like to see happen. That is why the Ruminator thought a week ago that the Malik proposal was not a fake. Having learned that the UN forces (largely United States forces) are not a push-over, Russia is following, it seems to me, the course laid out by Lenin years ago. Strike here, and give ground there — follow a zig-zag course—but avoid getting into a position where you are tied up. So, if Russia can slow down the defense program here and in western Europe, and at the same time cause economic disturbances and controversies, it is quite within her area of strategic planning.

Among all the confusion that will arise, I rather think that many stock-market followers will be misled in the near future. It has become almost a universal expectancy that stock prices will now fall very deeply. Practically every financial publication that comes to this writer's desk is bearish. Inasmuch as history does not reveal that people have been right on the market when they think in one direction it will not be surprising if the market stops going down earlier than is now anticipated. This is not to imply that the current downtrend is completed, but is a suggestion that the drop will not be as steep or as deep as is envisioned by many forecasters.

In this connection, let us bear in mind that fundamentally peace is bullish and war is bearish. If it should appear that a general war is unlikely in the foreseeable future, this might prove the supporting fact that would prevent a prolonged decline in the stock market.

Kiwanis, Rotary

being changed from an office into an organization. The President is now charged with powers and duties far beyond the capabilities of any man, he quoted the scientist as saying.

"In the past," Snyder declared, "the staying power of our national institutions, our firms and banks, was found in the word stability. Today, the word must be adaptability, speedy adaptation to changing conditions."

The service club guest went on to say that most of the great problems of our day will not be solved within the lifetime of most of us now living. "We must," he said, "resolve not to be driven to pessimism by these great doubts and dangers. The prudent thing is to give more attention to our possibilities."

He concluded by saying "a club, a city, a business is like airflight. If you stop, you drop. We must carry on. Courage is gaiety of the mind. God is not mocked and in due course righteousness will triumph."

The speaker was introduced before the joint session of the clubs by Elmer Rylance, a member of Kiwanis.

PLATTEKILL

Plattekill, July 6—The Plattekill Mothers Club conducted its final meeting of the season at the Plattekill school recently. Officers elected were: President, Mrs. Bernard Kopaski; vice-president, Mrs. Morris Jaconowitz; secretary, Mrs. Virginia Evans; treasurer, Mrs. Jeannette Evans; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ruth Cohen. Mrs. Evelyn Langlitz was general chairman of the annual picnic conducted by club members on the school grounds and was assisted by members of the club in preparations. Regular meetings will be resumed in September.

Members of the Spanish Social Club are planning a series of dances for the purpose of raising funds for the erection of a club building in the community. The first dance is scheduled for Monday evening, July 16, at Villa Nueva, Plattekill-Ardonia county road; Monday evening, July 23, at Villa Garcia, Plattekill-Ardonia county road; Monday evening, Aug. 13, at El Cortijo, Fostertown.

Oatis Recording

New York, July 6 (AP) — The voice of William Oatis, recorded while on trial before a Czech Communist court, will be broadcast tonight over NBC at 9:45 (EST). Earlier, at 8:30 (EST) the implications of the Oatis trial will be discussed over NBC's television network (Channel Four) on the battle report program from Washington. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent in Prague, was sentenced by the Czech government to 10 years for espionage.

Agree on Forces

Albany, N. Y., July 6 (AP)—An agreement on the coordinated use of federal and state military forces in New York in event of an emergency was announced today. An agreement was reached by Governor Dewey and Lt. Gen. Willis D. Crittenberger, commander of the First Army with headquarters on Governors Island in New York harbor. The state division of military and naval affairs, which announced the agreement, said details would not be made public because of security reasons.

Three New Frogs

New York, July 6 (AP)—The Bronx Zoo today got three giant Colombian toad frogs—one of them said to be the largest in captivity. The large one weighs one pound 14 and one-half ounces and its overall length is 17 and five-eighths inches. Its body is body is eight and seven-eighths inches long. Port Ewen Takes First

The Port Ewen Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps has been awarded the first prize trophy as a result of competition among musical units in the 175th anniversary parade held in Poughkeepsie on July 4.

Atom Boss Quits

London, July 6 (AP)—Britain's atom boss, Lord Portal, quit yesterday and one of the country's top scientists charged the Labor government had let its atomic bomb program fall far behind Russia's. Lord Cherwell, wartime Scientific adviser to Winston Churchill, told the House of Lords that Portal, former head of the Royal Air Force, quit as controller of the atomic energy program because he was displeased by red tape and lack of progress. The government, announcing the resignation, said Portal resigned because he "has work of his own that he would like to do." His successor was not immediately announced.

Girls Are Rescued

Hampton Bays, N. Y., July 6 (AP) —Two pretty teen-aged girls were rescued by the coast guard last night after a gale marooned them on a strip of land in Shinnecock Bay. They were Patricia Stevenson of Quogue, and Nancy Maginnes of White Plains. Both are about 12. The high wind carried away the sails on their small boat and drove it onto a spit of land. They could not escape on foot. A passing craft spotted them and the coast guard was called.

Begins Voyage Home

Naples, Italy, July 6 (AP)—Margaret Truman began her voyage home last night after a whirlwind seven-weeks of hobnobbing with royalty and visiting Old World landmarks in western Europe. Bidding farewell to her hosts in Italy, U. S. ambassador and Mrs. James Dunn, the President's daughter posed with her arms full of flowers for final pictures. Then she went to her cabin aboard the sleek new American liner U.S.S. Constitution, making its maiden west-bound voyage.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL
A Column of Contrary Opinion

If a Korean armistice is worked out, as seemed likely to us in this space last week, the Ruminator has a hunch that you will witness even greater confusion in the weeks ahead than we have been suffering in past weeks.

Pleasant outlook, isn't it?

But stop a moment to ruminate and see if you do not agree that all thought of cooperation will go by the boards and that every group and political organization will fight for its own interests.

While the Korean war was not a full-fledged war in the sense of a world conflict nevertheless there has been some effort at cooperation in the war and defense program.

From here on — at least for some weeks or months—there will be mostly wrangling.

Take the price-control legislation, as an example. It has been extended for a month, with certain limitations imposed on rollbacks and new items to come under control.

If the deflationary trend, which commenced five months ago, picks up momentum on the downside because of a Korean truce, you may very well find that the controversy over controls will increase. It is possible if prices generally fall away further, that the control bill would be put on the shelf. So far, in the deflation, prices of foods have not come down. The deflation has been marked in many commodities and raw materials, and in some wholesale prices. Also, of course, in the futures' markets. Prices of countless articles in stores are somewhat lower, as they have been influenced by the cut-price sales. But the bread basket still costs a pile of money to fill!

It looks as if there might be a continuation of the special sales throughout the summer, as inventories are still high. A ceasefire in Korea will doubtless accentuate these sales as store managers will bear a general post-war deflation.

This seems to be what we may look for over coming weeks, so far as the price-control situation is concerned. But, if food prices do not give way, there will be plenty of arguments for continued controls.

The word "readjustment" will be worked to death, probably, because there will be many readjustments among industries, if and when the Far Eastern war ends.

Every effort will be made by Washington to continue the defense program at top speed, but there is bound to be a slowing-down if the fighting stops.

There are many thinking people who believe our armament program is too large for our economy to carry and voices will be raised to curtail expenditures, you may be sure.

Of course, all these things are what Russia would like to see happen. That is why the Ruminator thought a week ago that the Malik proposal was not a fake. Having learned that the UN forces (largely United States forces) are not a push-over, Russia is following, it seems to me, the course laid out by Lenin years ago. Strike here, and give ground there — follow a zig-zag course—but avoid getting into a position where you are tied up. So, if Russia can slow down the defense program here and in western Europe, and at the same time cause economic disturbances and controversies, it is quite within her area of strategic planning.

Among all the confusion that will arise, I rather think that many stock-market followers will be misled in the near future. It has become almost a universal expectancy that stock prices will now fall very deeply. Practically every financial publication that comes to this writer's desk is bearish. Inasmuch as history does not reveal that people have been right on the market when they think in one direction it will not be surprising if the market stops going down earlier than is now anticipated. This is not to imply that the current downtrend is completed, but is a suggestion that the drop will not be as steep or as deep as is envisioned by many forecasters.

In this connection, let us bear in mind that fundamentally peace is bullish and war is bearish. If it should appear that a general war is unlikely in the foreseeable future, this might prove the supporting fact that would prevent a prolonged decline in the stock market.

Kiwanis, Rotary

being changed from an office into an organization. The President is now charged with powers and duties far beyond the capabilities of any man, he quoted the scientist as saying.

"In the past," Snyder declared, "the staying power of our national institutions, our firms and banks, was found in the word stability. Today, the word must be adaptability, speedy adaptation to changing conditions."

The service club guest went on to say that most of the great problems of our day will not be solved within the lifetime of most of us now living. "We must," he said, "resolve not to be driven to pessimism by these great doubts and dangers. The prudent thing is to give more attention to our possibilities."

He concluded by saying "a club, a city, a business is like airflight. If you stop, you drop. We must carry on. Courage is gaiety of the mind. God is not mocked and in due course righteousness will triumph."

The speaker was introduced before the joint session of the clubs by Elmer Rylance, a member of Kiwanis.

PLATTEKILL

Mrs. Evelyn Langlitz was general chairman of the annual picnic conducted by club members on the school grounds and was assisted by members of the club in preparations. Regular meetings will be resumed in September.

Members of the Spanish Social Club are planning a series of dances for the purpose of raising funds for the erection of a club building in the community. The first dance is scheduled for Monday evening, July 16, at Villa Nueva, Plattekill-Ardonia county road; Monday evening, July 23, at Villa Garcia, Plattekill-Ardonia county road; Monday evening, Aug. 13, at El Cortijo, Fostertown.

Atom Boss Quits

London, July 6 (AP)—Britain's atom boss, Lord Portal, quit yesterday and one of the country's top scientists charged the Labor government had let its atomic bomb program fall far behind Russia's. Lord Cherwell, wartime Scientific adviser to Winston Churchill, told the House of Lords that Portal, former head of the Royal Air Force, quit as controller of the atomic energy program because he was displeased by red tape and lack of progress. The government, announcing the resignation, said Portal resigned because he "has work of his own that he would like to do." His successor was not immediately announced.

Girls Are Rescued

Hampton Bays, N. Y., July 6 (AP) —Two pretty teen-aged girls were rescued by the coast guard last night after a gale marooned them on a strip of land in Shinnecock Bay. They were Patricia Stevenson of Quogue, and Nancy Maginnes of White Plains. Both are about 18. The high wind carried away the sails on their small boat and drove it onto a spit of land. They could not escape on foot. A passing craft spotted them and the coast guard was called.

Begins Voyage Home

Naples, Italy, July 6 (AP)—Margaret Truman began her voyage home last night after a whirlwind seven-weeks of hobnobbing with royalty and visiting Old World landmarks in western Europe. Bidding farewell to her hosts in Italy, U. S. ambassador and Mrs. James Dunn, the President's daughter posed with her arms full of flowers for final pictures. Then she went to her cabin aboard the sleek new American liner U.S.S. Constitution, making its maiden west-bound voyage.

Suggests Anglo Lead

London, July 6 (AP)—Seventeen Labor members of Parliament proposed today that Britain take the lead in trying to arrange an East-West settlement and "universal recognition" of Communist China. The rank and file Laborites, headed by left-winger Sydney Silverman, in a motion in Parliament also asked a Big Four foreign ministers meeting, limitation and reduction of armaments, international action to prevent inflation, a world plan for development and investment in backward areas, and a great increase in world food production and trade. No date was set for discussion of the motion.
